RETAIL SALES DIP 50% IN JUNE DESPITE UNLOCK MEASURES

Retail sales continued to be weak last month after the drastic fall in May, according to the Retailers Association of India (RAI)

SPORTS GOODS, JEWELLERY, APPAREL SALES HIT

In its latest business survey, the RAI said the highest drop was witnessed in the sports goods category at 66%, followed by jewellery (64%) and footwear (61%). Similarly, apparel and clothing sales dipped by 52% in June this year. In May 2021, the segment had reported a negative growth of 77%, according to RAI's monthly update released on Monday

FOOD, GROCERY AMONG LEAST IMPACTED

- Consumer durables and electronics sales dropped 46% in June as compared to the same month in 2019. This shows a feeble improvement as the segment had posted a dip of 71% in May
- Foods and grocery had the least impact with a decline of just 7% in June 2021 compared to June 2019 figures | P16

For SSLC students, it is a festival of exams

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE long-awaited SSLC examination for over 8.2 lakh students commenced with festive fervor, despite the Covid pandemic, across Karnataka on Monday.

The first leg of the two-day examination was held with students attempting the core subjects -- mathematics, science and social science – of 40 marks each in a span of three hours. All three papers saw an attendance of 99.6 percent. The similar format will be followed for language exams, which are scheduled for July 22.

Instructions had been given to students to mark their OMR sheets only with blue and black ink pens. Though three subjects were clubbed for the three-hour examination, evaluation for the subject papers will be separate. Mathematics, science and social science had different OMR sheets, said an examination staff.

Social distancing and Covid norms were ensured at all examination centres. P2

Rahul, Kishor, 2 ministers part of Pegasus snoop list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AN international collaborative investigation by journalists on Monday continued to reveal more names, including those of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, election strategist Prashant Kishor and two ministers in the Modi government, whose phones were potentially targeted for hacking using Israeli malware Pegasus.

The names, which included new IT minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and Minister of State for Food Processing Prahlad Singh Patel, were revealed hours after the former defended the government in Parliament.

Making a suo motu statement in Lok Sabha, Vaishnaw said the report on the government using Pegasus was nothing but an attempt to malign Indian democracy and its well-established institutions. "It is not a coincidence that the reports have been published a day before the monsoon session of Parliament. In the past, similar allegations were made on WhatsApp but there is no factual basis to these and have been categorically denied," he said.

While Union home minister Amit Shah called it a 'report by disrupters for obstructers', the Congress sought his resignation and a probe into the role of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the matter.

The Opposition will hold a strategy session on Tuesday on how to corner the government in Parliament on Pegasus.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's nephew Abhishek Banerjee, renowned virologist Gagandeep Kang, India head of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation Hari Menon and former election commissioner Ashok Lavasa's names also featured on the potential list of targets.

Over 1,000 Indian phone numbers were on the list of potential targets of which 300 were verified by the collaborative following which technical forensic analysis was performed on 22 smartphones.

The portal claimed that traces of the malware were found in Kishor's smartphone. According to the portal, the list of around 50,000 phone numbers across the world was obtained through leaked data by Amnesty International and Paris-based Forbidden Stories. The use of the malware could be confirmed on the smartphones only after forensic analysis. Some smartphones do not leave its traces and hence the potential hack could not established.

Israeli company, the NSO group, which owns Pegasus, claims only 'vetted governments' are part of its clientele. Monday's list came a day after it was revealed that the malware was used to hack into the phones of around 40 journalists and activists critical of the government. While Lavasa's phone was added to the list after he faulted Prime Minister Modi for poll code violations, Kang's was added in 2018 and Menon's around 2019.

Hack not established, says govt

"The consortium has accessed a leaked database of 40,000 numbers. The presence of a number does not indicate whether there was an attempted hack, or a successful one," Vaishnaw said

ADR FOUNDER ON LIST

Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR) founder Jagdeep Chhokar, associates of Union minister Smriti Irani and former Rajasthan chief minister Vasundhara Raje Scindia, and around 11 mobile phones belonging to a Supreme Court officer who levelled sexual harassment allegations former CJI Ranjan Gogoi were also on the list of potential targets

Minor wall collapse at KRS triggers panic

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

PANIC gripped people in the Cauvery basin area after a small wall at Krishnaraja Sagar Dam collapsed on Sunday evening. Irrigation Department engineers, however, said that there is no threat to the dam and the collapse occurred away from the reservoir.

Around 30 stones of the wall under a ramp connecting the KRS Dam and the Cauvery statue at Brindavan Gardens came tumbling down and it was caught on a CCTV camera installed at the dam site. The video went viral on Monday, spreading fear among farmers and people in and around the KRS reservoir. CONTINUED ON: P4

Delay in NEET-MDS counselling callous: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

TERMING the Centre's approach towards conducting counselling for NEET postgraduate dental surgery courses callous, the Supreme Court on Monday directed it to file an application seeking more time to address the sticking points.

Additional Solicitor General K M Nataraj sought to shift the blame on another SC bench, saying the government was awaiting clarification on providing OBC quota to seats in the All India Quota (AIQ) pool.

A committee was formed on the instructions of the Madras High Court to decide on OBC reservation in AIQ in state-run colleges for undergraduate and postgraduate courses, but it is yet to take the final call.

While ordering the setting up of the committee on July 27 last year, the high court had held that there was no constitutional or legal impediment to the extension of reservation for OBCs in the state-surrendered seats. The high court had also directed the panel to decide on the percentage of quota in three months. And, a three-member SC bench had in December upheld the HC order.

With the panel through the ASG seeking some more time on Monday, the Supreme Court granted one week to move an application for extension of time. "We will hear the matter after two weeks," said a bench of justices D Y Chandrachud and M R Shah.

When the bench suggested that the Centre could move an application before the three-judge SC bench on the panel, the ASG said, "We are doing that." "Doing what? You people only wake up when SC issues notices," Justice Chandrachud remarked.

Rowdy hacked to death inside bank in Koramangala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a horrific crime committed in broad daylight, a rowdy-sheeter who was with his wife and daughter was hacked to death by a gang of eight men inside a bank in busy Koramangala on Monday afternoon. The police suspect it to be a 'supari' (contract) killing over an old rivalry.

The deceased, Joseph alias Babli, aged around 40, was a resident of Rajendra Nagar slum in Adugodi. A rowdy-sheeter of Adugodi police station, he had turned into a small-time civil contractor over the last few years.

The police said Babli, his wife and daughter had come on a two-wheeler to the Union Bank of India's branch at Koramangala 8th Block. While they were inside the bank around 1.15 pm, the eight-man gang attacked him with swords and machetes even as his wife tried to stop them. Her two fingers were chopped off as the assailants were swinging the sharp weapons wildly, the police said. Babli died on the spot, while the assailants escaped from the scene.

Some of the customers ran out of the bank thinking that the attackers were a gang of dacoits, as they had covered their faces. It is learnt that they had come on two-wheelers and sped away swiftly after committing the murder.

Soon after the crime, senior police officers rushed to the spot and a sniffer dog squad was pressed into service. CONTINUED ON: P7

Jadhav's village will win if archers hit bullseye

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

WHEN Pravin Jadhav, a member of the Indian men's archery team at the Tokyo 2020 Olympics, used to join his parents as a farm labourer during his boyhood, he was not doing anything very unusual.

Hundreds of other children in Sarde, a hamlet of around 1,100 in the drought-prone Satara district of Maharashtra, did the same. Acute poverty forces boys/girls of Jadhav's village to join their parents as daily wage earners to supplement their family income.

Vikas Bhujbal, a school teacher who taught the archer, said while the elders are paid ₹300 a day to work in the bajra and jowar farms, the children who join their parents get half the sum.

Bhujbal said Jadhav's parents come from a less than humble background with no house or land of their own. "They work in the farms of others as daily wage workers. There are days they do not get work and struggle to meet daily expenses. But poverty did not stop Pravin from chasing his dream," he said.

Jadhav's village lacks basic facilities. It depends on wells and bore wells for water, the potholed roads have puddles of water in the monsoon, there is no primary health centre and the single local school is up to Class VII only. Beyond this, the children of Sarde have to walk a fair distance to attend school.

But years of neglect appear to be slowly changing. The village has seen a steady flow of visitors, including the local MLA and MP, to meet the rising star. They presented flower bouquets to his parents and Bhujbal noticed that some of these visitors have shared those photographs on social media.

Like other fellow villagers, Bhujbal thinks if Jadhav does well at the Olympics, the village will draw attention and things will take a turn for the better. "Mere wishes are not enough to change the lives of people in our village," he said. CONTINUED ON: P9

BBMP officials scrap food court plan in KR Market

Ask engineers to instead prepare report on constructing ramp or staircase to second floor

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta and Administrator Rakesh Singh inspected KR Market in Bengaluru on Monday | EXPRESS

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

SENIOR BBMP officials, who reached KR Market for inspection on Monday, were in for a shock. While taking stock of the garbage menace, they were informed that BBMP engineers were planning to construct a food court on the unutilised second floor, as a part KR Market's renovation. Merchants, vendors and citizens at the market also did not take the news well.

Members of fruits and vegetables association on the site told the officials that the market is frequented by traders, vendors, and customers who come for a short duration to purchase the things they need. "Constructing a food court is a waste of resource. Instead, the corporation should think of providing proper toilet and health facilities," they said.

"We have issued directions to the engineers to drop the food court plan and prepare a report on constructing a ramp or staircase for people to go to the second floor. The aim is to improve and open the building for all vendors from August 15," BBMP Administrator Rakesh Singh told The New Indian Express.

'VENDORS WILL NOT BE INCONVENIENCED'

Bengaluru: BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta and Administrator Rakesh Singh inspected KR Market on Monday and said that redevelopment work is being taken up under Bengaluru Smart City projects. Singh told the vendors that they will not be inconvenienced and alternate space will be provided to them for their work. They also inspected Avenue Road, where 1.80 km is being constructed under the Smart City project. Singh said the final decision on white or black topping will be taken on Tuesday. Gupta added that 60 per cent of KR Market Junction has been completed. "Officials have been instructed to complete the redevelopment work at KR Market, Avenue Road, and KR Market junction as soon as possible," he added. ENS

HIGHER STUDENT TURNOUT FOR SSLC EXAM THIS YEAR, SAYS EDU MINISTER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN comparison to last year, more students turned up for the SSLC examination this year, Primary and Secondary Education Minister Suresh Kumar said on Monday. He visited examination centres in the city to check the adherence to safety protocols.

"As many as 8,49,199 of the 8,52,191 students who registered for the Mathematics paper this year, attempted it (99.64%). This was higher than previous year's attendance of 98.30 percent. At least 8,40,841 of the 8,43,976 students who registered for the Science paper appeared for the examination (99.62%), which is also higher than previous year's attendance of 98.36 per cent. Even for social science, 8,21,823 of 8,24,689 students who registered for the examination wrote it (99.65%). This is higher than the 98.43 per cent attendance of previous year.

As many as 770 students came to write the examination from across the state border from Kerala, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, and Tamil Nadu. Vehicles were arranged for them. There was no case of malpractice reported this year.

"In several places, local organisations and people's representatives made provision for lunch for students. Some students who hadn't paid examination fees were also given their hall tickets at the deputy director of public instruction and the block education office level.

Discrepancy in statistics

While Kumar had earlier said 8.7 lakh students would be writing the examination, the department statistics showed 8.52 lakh registered students for Math, 8.40 lakh for science and 8.21 lakh for social science. KSEEB director Sumangala V said that the difference in numbers were due to the repeaters in each subject.

55-yr-old cop hopes to crack SSLC

Kolar: Keen to clear SSLC exams to get promoted as assistant sub-inspector, Karnataka State Reserve Police (KSRP) head constable K N Manjunath (55) wrote the exam on Monday. This was his second attempt. In his first attempt, Manjunath was unable to clear a single subject. However, this time he had prepared hard with the help of his son and daughter and was hopeful of sailing through. His promotion has been stopped for not clearing SSLC exam. He is presently serving in the 3rd battalion of the KSRP. Manjunath was the senior most person to write the exam. ENS

30 students denied hall tickets

Bengaluru: Suresh Kumar said 30 students in a school in Chikkerooru, Haveri district, were denied hall tickets despite paying the exam fees. The teachers had not paid the amount to the SSLC board. These students and three others in Bagalkot, will be allowed to write their examinations in August. ENS

GOING THE EXTRA MILE

SSLC students Shilpa and Sanjana, who hail from an island called Kuru, in Byndoor taluk, Udupi district, covered a part of their journey to the examination centre in Navunda, by boat. Later, their teachers Manjunath Devadiga and Sunil Shetty arranged a vehicle for them to reach the examination centre.

BBMP seeks ₹1K cr from govt to better med infra

ENS @Bengaluru

THE BBMP has made a proposal before the state government seeking the sanction of around ₹600-₹1,000 crore to improve the medical infrastructure in the city.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said the proposal has been made based on the recommendation and after a discussion with the medical task force. It has been proposed to create a referral hospital in every assembly constituency and ensure that there is a primary health centre in every ward. "This is a long-term plan and work on creating facilities in some places has already begun," he added.

"A proposal has been made to create 57 more PHCs, five tertiary and 27 secondary hospitals with 50-100 beds," Gupta added.

BBMP Special Commissioner, Health, D Randeep said that the dependency on private hospitals was more during the pandemic. "Hence, by creating more facilities, super speciality hospitals and other medical facilities, the rush to private hospitals will reduce. The new tertiary hospitals will also help in handling the rush at Victoria and Bowring Hospitals," he added.

The special commissioner said the detailed proposal was before the government for financial approval and once it is obtained, new works will be taken up and ongoing works will be expedited. He informed that in some areas, work is already being taken up.

RGUHS admin centre to be shifted after V-C appointment

ENS @Bengaluru

ACTION towards shifting of Rajiv Gandhi Health University Administrative Centre to Ramanagara, will be taken up after the appointment of a new vice-chancellor, said DyCM Dr CN Ashwath Narayan on Monday. The minister was talking at a ceremony of Toyota Kirloskar Motor (TKM) handing over a CT Scanner to Ramanagara District Hospital authorities.

TKM handed over 130 oxygen concentrators to the state government and provided Ambu bags, monitors, oximeters, glucometers, masks, sanitisers, etc to the District Health Office of Ramanagara.

Meanwhile, the appointment of the interim vice chancellor at RGUHS had courted controversy as the candidate is said to be a recommendation by the DyCM himself, and the process did not involve the health minister.

DON'T WANT TO BE 'COVID PASS', HAPPY TO WRITE EXAMS, SAY STUDENTS

ONLY 12 students were allowed to sit in each examination hall. In all, 111 students, who were showing symptoms of Covid, were made to write examinations in separate halls, while 58 students, who were Covid-positive, took the exams at CCCs.

Examination centres in different places ensured a grand entry for students, putting up balloons, confetti and lights. The transport department ran buses with minimum capacity especially for SSLC students, while dedicated services were arranged for Kerala students, who were coming into the State to write the exams, at Talapadi checkpost. Health workers in PPE suits ran rapid antigen tests for students who travelled from Goa.

Volunteers and officials at most of the centres addressed students' concerns immediately. At Hubballi, a girl came to Lamington School to write the exam, while her number was enrolled in another school. A police constable, who was at the centre, rushed her to the right exam centre and drew appreciation of local people. At Shirahatti in Gadag district, Police Circle Inspector Vikas Lamani offered to pick and drop all students to exam centres. Scouts and Guides volunteers helped officials in sanitising the students and ensuring social distancing.

In Bagalkot and Vijayapura districts, students were seen rushing to examination centres amid rain. At an examination centre at Holenarasipur in Hassan district, students were welcomed with a rose and sweets. A government school at Nanjangud in Mysore district had put up a banner welcoming students to 'Pariksha Habba' and decorated the premises.

Students from VSM English School at Rajajinagar in Bengaluru said they were happy to write the exam as they did not want to become "Covid pass". Loudspeakers were used to give instructions at examination centres and students were seen standing in queues keeping a safe distance from each other.

PETER VIDAL

20th July: Freedom, adventure, romance! That's what the approaching Jupiter-Neptune alignment offers. Its significance is a long-term one, extending over the next one or two years but, in the short run, we might soon see some headline-grabbing event, such as a major jail-break, or a move to independence by one of the world's forgotten people.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
There's much taking place that is still difficult to understand, and business arrangements may be turned upside down. Take the opportunity to consider your needs from a new angle, and you may realise how much room for improvement you have, after all.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
There's a tie-up between work and business, with colleagues suggesting new ventures which may not be in your normal line of things. This is an excellent time to work hard and conscientiously, but you mustn't be upset if people let you down.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There seems to be little point in relying on routine today as events may be affected by circumstances outside your control. You'll discover a new purpose in work that is essential to your long-term ambitions. But first and foremost are your financial needs.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There may be only the merest hint that someone you're close to is concerned about the direction in which your relationship is heading. However, you really should pay careful attention to such undercurrents. Otherwise, partners will continue to get the better of you.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)
There may be nothing unusual in the fact that your romantic life might be coloured by high drama. Loved ones will set demanding standards for you to follow, but you undoubtedly have every right to regard their expectations as unreasonable in the extreme.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sept 23)
There are increasing signs that domestic affairs are about to take an interesting turn, perhaps one which you've been awaiting for some time. The last thing you want to do is mishandle a golden opportunity. Especially now that there is so much going for you.

LIBRA (Sept 24 - Oct 23)
Quiet conditions and a complacent mood may tempt you to undertake all sorts of stressful activities that you'll later regret. This is a time to temper your energy and ambition with common sense and caution. And not to get carried away by domestic dreams.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)
Creative matters are approaching a turning point, and in all activities, you'll be rejecting authority and injecting new energy and enthusiasm into otherwise humdrum affairs. Take care not to offend professional colleagues, or to give them the wrong idea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 22)
It may be difficult to put your finger on the causes of today's problematic events, but much depends on how wisely you react to provocation. You may be concerned about imminent changes at home. But not so much that you are prepared to give up everything else!

CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)
A colleague may be behaving in a strange manner, but make allowances. You have a chance to be more considerate to friends and associates, and if you follow the path of compromise, you will earn gratitude and respect for the future. And about time, too!

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)
This is a relatively lively day, and one to keep your wits about you. You may be faced with the prospect of joining an interesting group of people and some of your social preconceptions are about to be upset. There are still too many secrets around, however.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)
Now that the planets are forming a relaxed and helpful alignment, energy which has been put into a partnership will be paid back in full. Take your share of the credit, though, as you've worked hard for everything you've got. And you deserve every shred of good luck.

After 4 months, state sees new low in daily caseload

Bengaluru: Karnataka on Monday reported 1291 cases, a new low in daily caseload. It was on March 17 that the state had seen just 1,275 cases. The day's positivity rate, too, fell to 0.94%. On July 12, Karnataka reported 1,386 cases, while the second lowest caseload was reported on July 4, with 1,564 cases. However, with 1,275 cases on Monday, the state reported the lowest number of cases after a long gap. The positivity rate of the state also saw a drop to 7.79%, from 7.81% on Sunday and 7.84% on Saturday. The state reported 3,015 discharges, with 97.72% recovery rate. The total discharges are 28,21,491. However, the daily case fatality rate increased to 3.09%, with 40 deaths being reported, and the total Covid deaths are 36,197. The state's mortality rate has been consistent at 1.25%, from July 13 to 19. ENS

Immunity, behaviour, vaccine coverage will determine third wave

Festive season set to coincide with next wave; mutations happen when numbers are high, warn experts

CHETANA BELAGERE
@Bengaluru

Experts say increasing vaccination coverage is vital to check the spread of Covid-19 | SHRIRAMBN

WHILE there is much speculation about the timing and magnitude of the third wave in Karnataka, experts believe that waning immunity, emergence of a more transmissible variant, people's behaviour during the lockdown relaxations, and vaccination coverage will decide the severity and arrival of the third wave.

"Karnataka is seeing a reduction in the number of Covid-19 cases, with most of the districts reporting single-digit cases. But the daily new infections are still not beyond the expected mark. The numbers continue to remain in four digits, indicating no sharp decline. At this time, there are a few factors which will decide not just the third wave but future waves too," explained Dr Manjunath CN, Director of Jayadeva Institute of Cardiology, and member, Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee.

Interestingly, senior epidemiologists explain that even those who have seen infections in the first wave could be reinfected in the third wave, if their immunity has waned. "The festive season begins in August. While the third wave is predicted around the same time, people who were exposed to Covid-19 in the first wave would also show a significant waning of antibodies by then. Current data suggests they would still get infected, but would be protected from severe disease, hospitalisation and mortality," explains a senior doctor from the TAC.

Experts who have been observing the rise and fall of Covid cases, say it is the nature of the virus to mutate, and the mutation happens faster when the number of cases is high. So the main factor for the arrival of the third wave would be complacency among people, which can lead to a high number of cases, and hence, mutations and arrival of new variants.

"All these are interconnected. A virus mutating and becoming more infectious is not in our control. But if we don't allow the virus to replicate in our body, the mutations can definitely be avoided, for which we need to control human behaviour. By following Covid-appropriate behaviour, one can stop these waves altogether. There was an induced, forced control introduced in the form of a lockdown, and a second wave was controlled," Dr Vishal Rao, Dean, Centre for Academic Research, HCG Hospitals, and member of Genome Sequencing Committee, explained.

Dr Manjunath says that at no cost should superspreader events be allowed, and enforcement of appropriate Covid-19 behaviour should be the government's focus. As far as variants are concerned, India and even Karnataka have so far seen two highly infectious variants -- Alpha and Delta.

"Between early March and end of May, Delta became the dominant variant. The third wave will also be dominated by the same variant, more or less. But if there is a new mutation with high transmissibility, then the third wave could be much more severe than the second wave," explained Dr Rao.

Meanwhile, doctors point out that vaccination has to be strictly speeded up to ensure that hospitalisation and mortality is low and lessens the burden on the healthcare system, and warn that the situation can be similar or worse than the second wave.

Micro-containment zones see a big jump

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THOUGH Covid cases have dropped in the city, the number of micro-containment zones has increased. The city had 44 micro-containment zones on July 1, which increased to 60 by July 18.

The highest number of active micro-containment zones is in Bommanahalli, followed by Mahadevapura. Since the second wave began, 613 micro-containment zones were declared and of them, 555 were deactivated.

"We have been actively following containment strategies so that the infection doesn't spread. The cases are not yet peaking, so there is nothing to worry about for now. Many are catching the infection after returning from other states," said a Bommanahalli zonal officer.

Meanwhile, the zone with the highest number of positive cases is Bommanahalli (712), followed by Mahadevapura (664), East Zone (547), South Zone (430), RR Nagar (417), Yelahanka (397) and West Zone (347).

Ready to become CM, says Katti

MLA Umesh Katti, who is also Minister for Food and Civil Supplies, said on Monday that he is ready to become the Chief Minister if the party offered him the top position. "I don't have any black spot in my political career. I am keen to become CM if the party high command and people bless me," he said

POLITICAL THEATRE

BSY INVITES CLOSE AIDES FOR LUNCH, SETS OFF CHATTER

Invitees keep mum; speculation continues over options before Yediyurappa

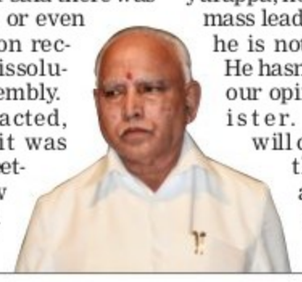
ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

TWO days after Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa returned from New Delhi after holding talks with central leaders, speculation over leadership change continues, with many in the party, including ministers, claiming there is no clarity over the latest developments.

While some ministers maintained that Yediyurappa will continue till this month-end and anything can happen in August, others claimed there is no clarity over developments within the party. "He will not resign on July 26, as speculated in the media. We are also waiting, anything can happen in August," said a cabinet minister.

On Saturday, the CM held a two-hour-long meeting with loyalist ministers and some legislators over lunch, and discussed the developments of his Delhi visit. Ministers Basavaraj Bommai, R Ashoka, Dr Sudhakar, ST Somashekar, Byrathi Basavaraj, BC Patil, newly appointed Vokkaliga Development board chairman M Krishnappa, and a few others attended the meeting. One of the ministers said it was an unplanned meeting and "nothing major was discussed".

The timing of the Vokkaliga Development Board constitution, changes in some boards and corporations, and the Governor's visit to Delhi when central leaders are busy with the Parliament session, has raised some eyebrows in political circles. Sources said recommending dissolution of the assembly may also be an option before Yediyurappa, but is unlikely to happen. A senior minister said there was no discussion, or even a suggestion, on recommending dissolution of the assembly.



When contacted, Ashoka said it was just a lunch meeting with a few ministers, and they had discussed various issues. He, however, did not reveal any information. Sources said Ashoka is likely to visit New Delhi in the next few days, but is finding it difficult to get an appointment with central leaders, as they are busy with the monsoon session of Parliament.

A senior minister told TNIE that ever since Yediyurappa had visited Delhi, there was no clarity either over his next move or the party leaders' next step. At Delhi, it was a closed indoor one-to-one meeting, he said.

Another minister said he trusts the new team more than the veterans. "There is no doubt, one cannot replace Yediyurappa, no one can match his mass leadership. But of late, he is not trusting anyone. He hasn't shared or sought our opinions," said a minister. "Speculation will continue even after this, though we are part of the government, we are clueless."

Day after audio, Kateel says BSY is party's soul

ENS @ Mangaluru

A day after an audio clip, purportedly of state BJP president Nalin Kumar Kateel went viral hinting at a possible leadership change in the state, the MP described CM BS Yediyurappa as the soul of the party and ministers KS Eshwarappa and Jagadish Shetter as its two eyes.

In the audio clip in Tulu, the speaker can be heard saying that Yediyurappa will soon be replaced along with his Cabinet colleagues Eshwarappa and Shetter. Kateel denied that the voice in the audio clip was his and added that he will write to the CM seeking an inquiry. "Yediyurappa is like soul of our party and Eshwarappa and Shetter are its two eyes." Meanwhile, Kateel cancelled his trip to Delhi on Monday to take part in the Monsoon session of the Parliament. Party sources, however, maintained that he will leave for Delhi on Tuesday.

GUV LEAVES FOR DELHI

Amid speculation of a leadership change in the state, Governor Thawar Chand Gehlot left for Delhi on Monday. While a few sources said he was summoned by President Ram Nath Kovind, others said it was customary for a newly-appointed Governor to call on the President. However, his visit assumes significance as Gehlot was once BJP in-charge of Karnataka and a certain amount of firefighting is required to handle the current political scenario in the state after CM's recent Delhi visit. TNIE contacted Raj Bhavan, but there was no explanation on the Governor's visit to Delhi.

MB Patil, Lingayat seer back CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AMID talk of a leadership change in the state, senior Lingayat leaders in the Congress are openly backing Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa. The seer of a prominent Veerashaiva-Lingayat mutt, too, backed the 78-year-old chief minister on Monday.

"Karnataka Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa is the tallest leader in the Lingayat community. The BJP's central leaders will face the wrath of the community if they remove him from the CM's post," senior Congress leader and former minister MB Patil said.

Patil said that considering Yediyurappa's age and contribution to the party, the BJP must treat him with respect. "To continue him as the CM or remove him from the post is an internal matter of the BJP. People of the state respect him, and BJP leaders must treat him with respect. People are pained with the way he was treated by the BJP leadership," he said, adding that it is his personal view and has nothing to do with his party's stand.

On Monday, another senior Congress leader and All India Veerashaiva Mahasabha president Shamanur Shivasankarappa met Yediyurappa to congratulate him for deciding to install social reformer Basavanna's statue on the Vidhana Soudha premises in Bengaluru.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, the former Congress minister said they (BJP central leaders) should know what had happened in the state when Veerendra Patil and other Lingayat leaders were removed from the CM's post. "All India Veerashaiva Mahasabha has always supported Yediyurappa, and will continue to do so," he said, and rubbished speculation over leadership change. Yediyurappa built the party in the state and BJP will be nothing without him, Shamanur added.

After the unceremonious removal of Veerendra Patil from the chief minister's post, Lingayat voters had drifted away from the Congress.

Meanwhile, Balehonnur Rambhapuri Peetha seer said Yediyurappa should be allowed to continue as Chief Minister, and the party will have to face the consequences if he is removed. Seers of several Lingayat mutts had earlier issued a statement, backing Yediyurappa.

Ready to take up any post given by party: KSE

Shivamogga: RDPR Minister and senior BJP leader KS Eshwarappa on Monday said that he was ready to accept any assignment given to him by the party. Speaking to reporters on the alleged audio that went viral on Sunday night on the leadership change in the state, Eshwarappa said that the voice in the audio was not of BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel. "I'm not worried about my ministerial berth. I'm ready to work on the task the party assigns to me," he said. "Conspirators cannot make Kateel a scapegoat in this incident," he said.

Yatnal predicts major changes in state on July 30

Vijayapura: BJP MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal—a vocal dissenter of Yediyurappa—has hinted at a major political development in the state on July 30. "July 30 is like the D-day in state politics," he said. "PM Modi will opt for such a leader who will be capable of taking the party towards victory in the next Assembly polls besides," he said. Yatnal said he is yet to get an invite for the BJP legislature meeting to be held on July 26. "I will attend it and express my views about the party and government," he said. He sought a CCB probe into the audio clip that purportedly talks about leadership change in the state.

BSY appoints loyalists as board chiefs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AMID speculation about leadership change in Karnataka, the State Government on Monday appointed Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa loyalist Kapu Siddalingaswamy as chairman of the Karnataka Tourism Board, replacing actor-turned-politician Shruthi, who has been made head of the Karnataka State Temperance Board.

The government also appointed Bengaluru South MLA M Krishnappa as chairman of the newly constituted Vokkaliga Development Board.

While Krishnappa is a relative of Revenue Minister R Ashoka, considered a Yediyurappa loyalist, Kapu is a close associate of the CM. Kapu had quit the BJP and joined Yediyurappa when the latter quit the saffron party to start the Karnataka Janata Paksha in 2013.

The appointment of a Yediyurappa loyalist as Tourism Board chairman assumes significance as Tourism Minister CP Yogeeshwara has been vocal in seeking the ouster of the 78-year-old CM. BJP sources said that such a move was expected of Yediyurappa. "Whenever Yediyurappa is in distress, he sends a clear message to the people who oppose him. By making his man chairman of the Tourism Board, Yediyurappa has sent a strong message to Yogeeshwara," a source said. Kapu's appointment is also a message to Yediyurappa loyalists, that the CM will always stand by those who support him. Shruthi is considered to be close to Yogeeshwara, and her removal is Yediyurappa's message to his dissenters, the source said.

Sources also said that at the previous BJP core committee meeting, it was decided to sack chairpersons of boards and corporations if their work was not up to the mark. "It was decided to appoint party workers who perform well. The list was prepared by Yediyurappa and BJP state chief Nalin Kumar Kateel. But, Yediyurappa made an unilateral decision even before the list was placed before the committee," sources said.

Yediyurappa had announced the setting up of a Vokkaliga Development Board in his budget this year, and set aside ₹500 crore for the same. The government issued an order constituting the board on Saturday— the day Yediyurappa returned from his two-day hectic Delhi trip, which has resulted in a lot of suspense over his continuation as Chief Minister.

DKS, Siddu to discuss local body polls, bypolls with central leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OPPOSITION leader Siddaramaiah and Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) President DK Shivakumar are expected to meet Congress leaders Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi together in Delhi on Tuesday morning. While both are travelling separately, they are expected to reach Delhi late Monday evening. The agenda for meeting the high command together is to thrash out issues pertaining to the upcoming ZP/TP elections, the winners of which will vote in the MLC elections to 25 seats which have fallen vacant.

Two assembly bypolls -- to Hangal and Sindagi -- are on the cards and probable candidates have been meeting both these leaders.

Congress leader Siddaramaiah at the Kempegowda International Airport on his way to New Delhi on Monday

They are also expected to discuss an action plan for BBMP polls, for which elections are due soon, and the party is concerned that they do not have winning candidates in all constituencies. They are expected to give their opinions on the KPCC revamp, that has been in the planning stage for many weeks now.

While Siddaramaiah left Bengaluru a little past 5pm, and is scheduled to reach Karnataka Bhavan where he will halt for the night, Shivakumar left around 7 pm and is expected to halt the night in New Delhi. Both leaders are expected to meet General Secretary RS Surjewala and General Secretary (Organisation) KC Venugopal before they meet Rahul Gandhi and Sonia Gandhi together.

Party sources said it is common practice for the high command to meet state leaders either before or at the beginning of the Parliament session.

'Wall collapsed due to rain, dam not in danger'

IRRIGATION Department officials rushed to the spot, barricaded the portion where the collapse occurred and blocked entry of people into Brindavan Gardens and the dam for some time. They pressed workers to rebuild the 2.5 metre wall, removed loose soil at the spot and completed the works by evening.

Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Ltd Superintendent Engineer Vijaykumar, who accompanied Chief Engineer Shankar Gowda to inspect the spot, told TNIE that the collapse occurred 11 ft away from the dam structure and at 89 ft height of the KRS reservoir, which has a capacity storage of 124.8 ft. He said that the collapse did not indicate that the dam is in danger and the stone wall built using mortar had collapsed because of heavy rains over the last one week.

He denied that the dam has developed cracks, and pointed out that any reservoir always has minor seepage which is common. He said that the government has taken up works to contain seepage in the dam.

Mandya MP Sumalatha, who had recently said that the KRS Dam had developed cracks because of illegal mining around the reservoir, on Monday said that the collapse of the wall is a red alert and that the government and officials should take up immediate works to protect the monument.

Sumalatha, who is in Delhi for the monsoon session of Parliament, told the media that the State Government should conduct a detailed study by experts and act tough on erring officials. During her recent visit to Baby Betta near Srirangapatna, she wanted the government to strictly ban illegal mining in and around KRS dam. JDS MLA Ravindra Srikanataih, who visited the collapse site on Monday morning, too, clarified that there is no threat to the dam.

Gangotsava to boost tourism in Talakadu

ENS @ Mysuru

TOURISM Minister C P Yogeeshwara on Monday said that the government has decided to conduct 'Gangostava' on the lines of the Dasara festivities to boost tourism in Talakadu. "It will be an annual festival ahead of Dasara, which will promote the development of Talakadu in T Narsipura taluk," he said.

After an interaction with officials, the minister felt that there is a need to promote Talakadu as a tourist destination. Observing that Talakadu lacks amenities, Yogeeshwara said that festivals such as Gangotsava will attract tourists and will also contribute to the development of the town and announced a Talakadu Development Committee to look into the requirements.

"We have planned to introduce water sports in KRS backwaters and have dropped the Disney land project following opposition from the public," he informed and said that the government is firm on the ropeway project in Chamundi Hills.

Yogeeshwara said that the much-awaited heli tourism project will take off from Bengaluru. He said that the greens had opposed the project at Lalitha Mahal and modalities have been worked out to begin it in Mysuru.

MLA K Raghupathi Bhat releases the Tulu font 'Mandara' in Udupi on Monday

MLAs from Udupi, DK dists will speak in Tulu in Assembly

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Udupi

UDUPI MLA K Raghupathi Bhat on Monday said that all MLAs from Dakshina Kannada district and southern parts of Udupi district will speak in Tulu on the floor of the legislature during the next winter session.

He said that such a possibility did exist in the past too, but as there was a dearth of stenographers who knew Tulu in the House, the Speaker had requested the MLAs to speak in Kannada instead of Tulu. However, the Speaker has assured the MLAs that an arrangement will be made in future to appoint Tulu-speaking stenographers to transcribe the speech, the Udupi MLA further said.

"Assembly Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri has a positive approach with regard to Tulu as an official language," Bhat said.

Tulu font

The Udupi MLA was speaking to reporters after the launch of Tulu font, 'Mandara', developed by Prahlad Tantry. Prahlad has made an independent effort to develop the font, which is adaptable to computers. The Karnataka Tulu Sahitya Academy is expected to seek the help of the State Government to release Mandara font in a universally acceptable Unicode platform.

Bhat, while stressing on reviving the Tulu script, said it was being used extensively earlier. But nowadays, Tulu is only spoken and not written. During the time of 13th century philosopher Madhwacharya, Tulu script was vastly used by people, he added.

To prove his point, the MLA said the pontiffs of Udupi's Ashta Mutts put their signature in Tulu script even today. Bhat said that Tulu script might have been sidelined after the region came under the Madras Presidency administration in British-era India. Numerous religious texts are in Tulu script and the government should promote the language and the script by getting students to learn at school level in the region, Bhat said.

State govt provisionally attaches Baig's assets

Former Cong MLA is an accused in the multi-crore IMA scam

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government provisionally attached the immovable and movable properties of former Congress MLA and minister R Roshan Baig, under the Karnataka Protection of Interest of Depositors in Financial Establishment Act, 2004, in the multi-crore I Monetary Advisory (IMA) scam.

The properties attached include the six immovable properties mentioned in the affidavit that Baig had submitted before the Election Commission in 2018, along with nomination papers for the Assembly elections. "The government, after considering the report of the Special Officer and Competent Authority, IMA, as well as the chargesheet submitted by the Central Bureau of Investigation, has come to the conclusion that R Roshan Baig, former minister and MLA residing at 3, Cleveland Road, Fraser Town, Bengaluru, has played a key role in utilising his public office and goodwill to promote the business activities of the IMA Group as well as in getting financial returns from the group, has played a role clandestinely and as promoter of the IMA Group by investing in the form of sweat equity rather than being a formal promoter who invests equity in the form of money," stated the government order.

"On receipt of government orders for provisional attachment, we have taken steps to seize the immovable properties and movable properties like bank account, shares, jewellery etc. We will be filing application in the Special Court shortly for absolute attachment of these properties," said senior IAS officer, Special Officer and Competent Authority, IMA case, Harsh Gupta.

'Got threat calls from actor's people'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

JOURNALIST and film director Indrajit Lankesh, who had accused actor Darshan of assaulting a hotel staff in Mysuru, has alleged that the actor's followers and some rowdies are making threat calls to him. He has lodged a police complaint in this regard.

Speaking to reporters on Monday, the director said that he has been getting threat calls for the last 24 hours by the actor's followers. He alleged that they called him every 30 seconds and abused him with offensive language and sent vulgar photos.

"I am getting repeated threat calls from them and this is being done at the behest of Darshan. I am not frightened by the development and will fight legally against the actor," he said, adding that the actor had also made derogatory comments about media and the audio clip had gone viral.

Later, he met the DCP (South-East division) Srinath Mahadev Joshi, and filed a formal police complaint. "Along with the complaint, I have shared the phone numbers from which I got the calls and vulgar images. The police have assured me action within two-three days," Lankesh added.

RTI activists meet Bommai over murders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the murder of two RTI activists in the state, a group of RTI activists and advocates met Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai and others, demanding early arrest of the killers and stringent action against them. The delegation met Bommai, Additional Chief Secretary of Home department Rajaneesh Goel, DG & IGP Praveen Sood, and Karnataka State Human Rights Commission member Rupak Kumar Dutta on Monday.

"After listening to our demands, the Home Minister will convene a meeting to be attended by senior police officials to ensure protection to RTI activists. The Home Department ACS also assured us to look into the matter without any delay, while the DG & IGP informed that he had instructed officers to submit the chargesheet within 30 days," said Sudha Katwa, who was part of the delegation.

Cops arrest 13 rowdies for drug peddling

Bengaluru: The Kumaraswamy Layout police have arrested 13 rowdies who were allegedly peddling marijuana (ganja) to arrange funds to fight cases against them. The police have seized 21 kg of ganja from them. The arrested are Malayali Madhu alias Rock Madhu, his associates Likhin, Kariyappa, Kiran Kumar and Shivaraj Kumar, all residents of Yalachenahalli; Ayyappa of Jayanagar, Sagar of Konanakunte, Munikrishna, Jabiulla, both residents of Kumaraswamy Layout; Pramod and Manjunath, both residents of Austin Town and Stalin of Tamil Nadu. Police said Madhu was involved in a double murder case in JP Nagar, apart from 10 other cases, and was released on bail, while Likhin, Ayyappa, and Kariyapa have five cases each against them. "Madhu was peddling drugs to make easy money and pay lawyers," the police added. ENS

NRI woman murder: One held

Udupi: Police investigating the murder of NRI woman Vishala Ganiga in Brahmavara have arrested an accused person from Uttar Pradesh. The victim's husband-Ramakrishna Ganiga, who is employed in Dubai, is an accused in the case for allegedly hiring a supari killer to murder his wife, sources said. Vishala (35) was found murdered at her apartment in Brahmavara on July 12 evening. Police had interrogated Ramakrishna and got strong evidence that it was a supari killing case. The reason for this murder it is yet to be known. ENS

SC to hear plea on Kerala lifting curbs

Petitioner alleges state decided to relax restrictions due to political, communal reasons

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T'Puram

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday will hear the petition challenging the state government's decision to relax Covid lockdown restrictions for three days in view of Bakrid, which falls on Wednesday.

The plea was filed on Monday by Delhi resident P K D Nambiar against the relaxation of lockdown restrictions on July 18,19 and 20. The petitioner alleged the state decided to relax restrictions due to political and communal considerations and not on medical advice.

"News reports say the decision followed discussions between CM Pinarayi Vijayan and leaders of Kerala Vyapari Vyavasayi Ekopana Samithy (KVVES)," he alleged.

Justice R F Nariman and B R Gavai asked the state's counsel to file the reply to the petition on Monday itself and added it would take up the matter for hearing as the first item on Tuesday.

The petitioner also pointed out how the Uttar Pradesh government cancelled its decision to allow Kanwar Yatra after the Supreme Court's intervention.

The bench reminded all parties about the apex court's earlier orders emphasising the paramount importance for right to live.

Kerala's standing counsel G Prakash said the allegation levelled by the petitioner was baseless. He said the lockdown restrictions have already been in place in the state and what the government did was to extend the relaxation to open shop in some more regions. He said the state was strictly following the guidelines issued by the Centre while managing the lockdown.

The state government lifted the restrictions following pressure from KVVES which announced forceful opening of shops if the government did not allow them to open before Bakrid. The government announced relaxations after discussion between Pinarayi and KVVES leaders on Friday.

'THERE IS NO POPULATION EXPLOSION IN COUNTRY'

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

The Uttar Pradesh State Law Commission has released a draft of the Population Control Bill, which incentivises small families with one to two children and disincentivises them for non-adherence. Eight states — Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Gujarat, Maharashtra, Odisha, Rajasthan and Uttarakhand — have two-child norms and UP will be the ninth.

Karnataka is also mulling a similar policy to incentivise smaller families. TNIE spoke to Poonam Muttreja, executive director, Population Foundation of India, on the proposed legislation and its impact on women and their right to reproductive health. Excerpts:

Is there a population explosion in India? Has the birth rate gone up in the last 10 years?

There is no evidence of population explosion in the country. Demographic transition is under way in India. The Indian Census data on population confirms that the decadal growth rate during 2001-2011 had reduced to 17.7% from 21.5% over 1991-2001. India's Total Fertility Rate has also declined substantially from 3.2 in 2000 to 2.2 as per the 2018 Sample Registration System. More recently, data from the first phase of the NFHS-5 (2019-20) suggests that of the 17 surveyed states and five surveyed UTs, only Bihar, Manipur and Meghalaya are yet to achieve a TFR of 2.1 or less, implying that most states have attained the replacement level of fertility, which is defined as the rate at which the population replaces itself from one generation to next.

Where does India stand as far as maternal and neonatal mortality are concerned?

Between 2007-09 and 2016-18, India has seen a decline in maternal mortality by 47%. Both UP and Assam saw a decline of 45%. According to NFHS-5 (2019-20), all states, except Tripura, Manipur and Meghalaya, reported a decline in neonatal mortality rate between NFHS-4 (2015-16) and NFHS-5 (2019-20). Kerala (3.4) and Bihar (34.5) reported lowest and highest NNMR, respectively in 2019-20.

What are the Karnataka statistics? A survey showed that the desired family size in Karnataka is two children.

According to the National Family Health Survey-5, Total Fertility Rate in Karnataka is 1.7, which is less than the national average of 2.2 and much below replacement level fertility of 2.1, which is when the population replaces itself. Data from the NFHS-5 shows that desired fertility rate (the average number of children women of reproductive age desire to have) is even lower at 1.38%. This shows that even without a coercive population policy, men and women want smaller families. The state, therefore, needs to expand the basket of contraceptive choices.

K'taka files plea in SC over Cauvery water row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state filed a petition before the Supreme Court on Monday claiming rights over surplus water of Cauvery river and objecting to Tamil Nadu's Cauvery link project on Monday.

Earlier this year, Tamil Nadu had laid the foundation for Cauvery-Vaigai- Gundar link project with an intention to utilise about 45 TMC of surplus water from Cauvery river. Karnataka had objected in the same month and even raised the issue during session this March 2021. Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraj Bommai had replied in the House that they are taking legal help to fight against this.

Confirming that the state filed a petition in the SC, sources in the government said they have filed the plea as per the advice of the legal team. "We have objected to Tamil Nadu government's intention to use surplus water," sources said.

It can be noted that Tamil Nadu is opposing Karnataka's plan to build a reservoir at Mekedatu near Ramanagara. They are even pressuring the Central government to not accord permission to Mekedatu reservoir project with a component to generate 400-megawatt electricity, that is intended to use excess water. Karnataka contends that the project with a capacity to store 67 tmc of water, will help utilise 4.75 tmc water to meet the drinking water needs of Karnataka, including Bengaluru.

Intermittent rain continue to lash Malnad, rivers in spate

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chikkamagaluru

An old tree was uprooted in Chikkamagaluru following heavy rain on Sunday

COPIOUS rains pounded most parts of Koppa, Mudigere, Sringeri and NR Pura taluks from Saturday night to Sunday. On monday morning, rain gave some respite but from afternoon, intermittent showers continued to lash many parts of Malnad region.

Kalasa, Horanadu, Kudremukh, Javali, Hirebail, Baluru in Mudigere taluk; Sringeri, Kigga, Agalagandi, Kerekatte, Nemmar, Uttameshwar in Sringeri taluk; Beejadakatte, Jayapura, Balehonnur in NR Pura taluk received heavy rains from Saturday night.

Since catchment area of Kudremukh is receiving torrential rain, Tunga, Bhadra and Hemavathy rivers originating from the region are flowing near the danger mark. Traffic between religious centres Kalasa and Horanadu has been disrupted following Bhadra water submerging the Balehole bridge.

Hemavathy river near Banakal is overflowing, inundating fields on either side. Farmers in Malnad are all set to transplant paddy saplings in slushy fields. Coffee planters are worried about rot disease due to incessant rain.

After unlock, tourists are flocking to Charmady Ghat which is covered with snow, interspersed with natural waterfalls gushing down the cliffs. The locals complain that fun-loving and frolicking young tourists park their vehicles in the middle of the road to take selfies, creating traffic snarls.

Theft accused 'dies' in police custody, probe on

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kalaburagi

A theft accused arrested by M B Nagar police in connection with a case on Sunday morning died in the same evening triggering suspicion of custodial death.

According to sources, Chandru (30), son of Venkat of Hyderabad and a resident of Kushnoor locality, was a habitual offender.

M B Nagar police arrested him on Sunday morning. During the course of interrogation, he complained of health complications in the evening.

The police rushed him to the district government hospital where he was declared brought dead. When Express contacted Police Commissioner Ravikumar, he said, "The police have registered the case as custodial death."

First canopy walk in India opens in Kali Reserve

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

THE unique eco-tourism attraction of Kali Tiger Reserve - the canopy walk - is now open for nature enthusiasts. The Castle Rock Wildlife Division of the park has resumed trekking near the Dudhsagar waterfalls in Kuveshi area.

The 240m structure has been built between four large trees at the height of 30 feet,and visitors can indulge in the rich flora and fauna unique to the region. This walk was inaugurated four years ago, but was not operational as greens opposed the project due to the eco-sensitivity of the area and villagers demanded road connectivity to resume the tour.

"For a long time, the canopy walk structure was unused. From this season, the division has resumed guided trips. The vehicles will take the visitors up to the forest check point near Kuveshi and then the walk will begin," said a forest official. He added that water sports at Ganeshgudi have also resumed.

'Special teams formed to nab killers'

ADDITIONAL Commissioner of Police (East) S Murugan told reporters that special teams have been formed to nab the killers.

The police have recorded the statements of bank employees and are analysing footage from CCTVs at the bank and surrounding localities. A murder case has been registered at the Koramangala police station.

Dad-in-law murdered in hospital, son-in-law in bank

Sources said that Babli, who was not involved in any criminal activities since 2011, was the son-in-law of Palani, who was hacked to death by a gang of 20 assailants in the infamous Hosmat Hospital attack in 2006. Palani was undergoing treatment at the hospital and the incident had sent shockwaves across the city.

"Babli's brother-in-law, George, also a rowdy-sheeter, was arrested in connection with a murder case at Ashoknagar recently. There is information that Babli also had a rivalry with a criminal, Shivakumar. George and Shivakumar were not on good terms with Babli. Their involvement is being probed and it is suspected that it's a supari killing. The role of insiders cannot be ruled out as the killers had a clear tipoff that the target was going to the bank," a police official said.

TS wants new tribunal for Krishna

ENS @ Hyderabad

AFTER the Jal Shakti Ministry issued the gazette notification bringing 107 irrigation projects under the purview of the KRMB and GRMB, the State government is now vigorously lobbying for a new Tribunal for Krishna river. It wants a new tribunal so that a fresh allocation of Krishna river waters could be made for Telangana.

"Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao is lobbying for a new Tribunal," official sources confirmed on Monday. The TS already has filed a petition in the Supreme Court which will pave way for the Centre to refer the river water sharing issue between AP and TS to a Tribunal.

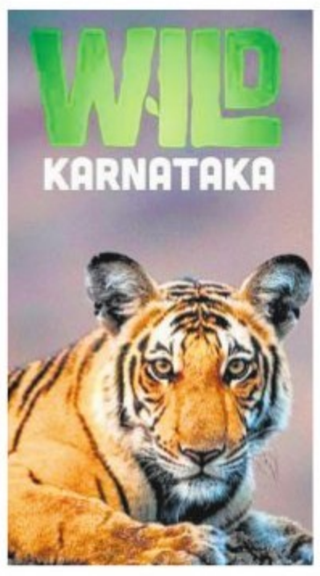
HC stays broadcasting of Wild Karnataka

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi



A retired IFS official from the forest department has written a letter to the government alleging illegalities in the rights and distribution of Wild Karnataka documentary.

In a letter to Sandeep Dave, Additional Chief Secretary, Forest, Environment and Ecology, retired additional principal chief conservator of forests Shiv Raj Singh has highlighted how the documentary was illegally released commercially on various international channels by directors and through foreign agencies. The official has also named serving IFS officials from the forest department and documentary makers who worked for the Wild Karnataka documentary in the letter.

Karwar: Wild Karnataka, a 50-minute film showcasing Karnataka's wildlife, has run into rough weather as the High Court has stayed its broadcasting, selling, telecasting and other activities.

Hearing a petition filed by Ravindra N Redkar, a native of Joida taluk in Uttara Kannada district and others, the division bench headed by Chief Justice Justice Abhay Shreenivas Oka has ordered the filmmakers and people related to it from telecasting the documentary.

"The respondents 5 to 9 should be restrained from publishing, distributing, reproducing, broadcasting, telecasting, marketing, selling and exhibiting the film known as 'Wild Karnataka' or India's Wild Karnataka/ or any part of it or the raw footage captured by the respondent 5 to 9 and their team under the Memorandum of Understanding dated on November 3, 2014," the order said.

The HC has issued notice to Additional Chief Secretary, Govt of Karnataka, Forest Environment and Ecology Department, Principal Chief Conservator of Forests, head of Forest Force and PCCF wildlife and chief wildlife warden with directions to appear before the court in person or be represented by an advocate.

Sandeep Dave, Addl Chief Secretary, Forest, Ecology and Environment, said "I have received the letter and it will be looked into. In fact the official who has penned the letter was also in the department when the MoUs were signed. Senior forest officials are checking on the allegation.

POLITICS AS USUAL IN KARNATAKA DESPITE PANDEMIC

Nothing works like politics in India. Everything else can fail or collapse, but not the politics of one-upmanship. Take Karnataka, one of the worst-hit states in the second wave. Yes, now on a recovery path but with no anticipatory bail against a third wave. The healthcare infra is exhausted. So are the health workers. Vaccination needs to be on a war footing, but supply is slothful. Once a higher education hub, now Karnataka dangles in an indeterminate space between online and offline. Schools are mired in wrangling between parents and school admins on fees in the cities and between students and broadband providers in the hinterland. Heavy rains and floods are back—farming is in stasis. Fuel prices have skyrocketed. The youth are jobless and listless.

The elected representatives would have been expected to rally behind the people in such times of wholesale distress. But no, they are busy with their political careers. Some from the ruling side regularly spend time visiting Delhi to lobby for a leadership change. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa is 78, an exception in his party where the cutoff date for political posts is 75. So just about everyone worth his salt is expecting to succeed him. Not on the merit of, say, exemplary pandemic relief or any such falsely pious reason, but by dint of the size of their communities. Can the Lingayat vote bank be assuaged if BSY is replaced by another community face? Is it better to try upstage the Congress and JD(S) by putting a Vokkaliga at the helm? The Congress, for its part, cannot make up its mind if PCC chief D K Shivakumar (Vokkaliga) or former CM Siddaramaiah (an AHIND strongman) would be the best bet as the next CM candidate. Elections are two years away, but all political energies are expended on supporters of the two factions targeting the other. What about the people? Who said democracy was meant for them?

COVID HEADACHE GROWS AT GAMES

The Tokyo Olympics is not scheduled to start until Friday but the signs are already ominous. The greatest test for the organisers and the International Olympic Committee might not be organising the sports but delivering an Olympics without disruption due to Covid cases. Just a few days ago, IOC president Thomas Bach had said it was a 'zero-risk' Games but the early indications belie such optimism. The IOC had been advocating that the Games would be safe and not pose a threat to the Japanese public. Yet, positive cases have reached the holiest of all places—the Games Village—where 11,000 athletes are expected to reside. It started with a resident followed by three South African athletes (two in the Village) on Sunday; and now a Czech beach volleyball player too has tested positive. The latest positive case poses a unique problem for the organisers. The player was supposed to partner his teammate in a match on July 26. However, isolation protocols would not allow him to do that. This has led to pressure on the organisers to tweak the schedule and isolation rules. This seems to be just the beginning. According to reports, 55 people linked to the Olympics have tested positive since July 1.

The organisers and IOC are working overtime to see how athletes who tested positive can return to the arena. Publishing a 'playbook' is one thing, the reality is another. There will be occasions when some rules would be tweaked. Unlike the Euro or Copa America, the scale of the Olympics in terms of athletes and manpower is humungous. Also unlike in football tournaments, here an athlete may not get a second chance to compete. The IOC's challenge just got harder. Already Tokyo, in a state of emergency, has rising Covid cases. Positive cases in the Games Village means their headache has just become a migraine.

Another setback was the announcement of Toyota, the Games' principal sponsor, that it would not be part of the Opening Ceremony. The company will also not run any adverts on television during the Olympics keeping in mind public sentiment. The Games are yet to begin but the rumblings have started. The stellar achievements of athletes at the grandest celebration of sports will no longer remain the only focus during the July 23-August 8 Olympics. All eyes are expected to be on the medals tally no doubt, but the Covid tracker will also be keenly followed.

According to reports, 22 out of the 30 most polluted cities in the world are in India. Each of us is a silent contributor to this problem and there is a dire need to address it

INDIA BURNS: AIR POLLUTION & HOW TO CONTROL IT

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

AMIT BANDRE

India burns its crop. India burns its garbage. India burns a lot it wants to get rid of.

Let's look around. Crop burning is a practice. Our food-bowl states grow crops for us. At the end of the crop, every plant has produced two things: Things we as well as our buffalos, cows and goats will eat, and stuff that no one will eat. This is considered to be fit to burn. And burn we do. In the crop harvest months, the entire country wears a pall of crop-burning gloom. There is a haze in our lives that one has come to expect every year come the season to burn.

If rural agrarian India does this with gusto, urban and mini-metro India is not too far with its burning fetish. Burning (not controlled incineration) is par for the course in our big cities and towns alike. We love to burn dry leaves and twigs to warm ourselves in the winter months. We love to burn dry garbage all year round. It's considered a great way to get rid of a voluminous mess. Burn up those mounds of leaf and garbage and within hours the ground is clear. All that is left is ash and plastic residue. The rest has gone into the air, polluting it along with everyone who breathes it all in.

This burning fetish is one that belongs not only to the individual in his little home with a garden in front of it, but also to those who dump garbage at street corners and institutions that belong to the government and our Armed Forces as well. I live right next to one such establishment, the Air Force Camp, Murugeshpalya in Bengaluru. And a lot is burned literally every other day. Burn it all in the open air and let loose particulate matter into the air all around.

We also burn for business. While large factories all around come under the Pollution Control Act and its stringent measures, smaller establishments of every kind have a wanton existence. Our jaggery and tile factories pollute at will, just as every other small enterprise does its own thing, often not worrying too much about what is let out as pollutants into the air. The sad thing is that dry and wet pollution can be seen visibly, but air pollution is well nigh invisible. At times there is just no colour to it and even if there is, it seems to dissipate all too fast. Tracking back to the source is all the more difficult. Evidence in air pollution has this happy aspect that it disappears fast and quick.

And then we burn for fun. Every anecdotal bonfire is one such piece of fun. Fortunately, India is not a land of the regular bonfire. But we have our festivals. Firecrackers are a classic act that pollute the air that much more. Festival time is not much of a celebration for those sick with respiratory ailments.

We also burn for commuting. Fortunately, pollution control laws that dictate emission standards are tight in India. There is a mandatory pollution control check every vehicle has to go through every six months. And despite it all, we pollute as we travel. The pandemic had cleared the air of this one pollutant for months. But once life resumed to normal, so did the pollutant.

Each one of us, in some way or the other, is a sinner in this country that silently celebrates air pollution. The sad fact is that we don't take note of it. Not till it affects any one of us or a dear one in the family. By then, it is too late. Contributing to the degree of air pollution seems a national passion. All of us do it in our own small way. We need to sit up and smell the pollution.

> There is an urgent need to educate ourselves about the quality of air we breathe in today at home, in office, in our schools and colleges, and in every public space we love to thrive in. ... We just don't know how polluted the air we breathe is, which is why we are not as concerned about the issue as we should be

There is a dire need to address the issue of air pollution in India. According to numbers published by IQair from Switzerland, 22 of the 30 most air polluted cities in the world are in India. And New Delhi is the most polluted capital city in the world. A dubious distinction that must make us worry.

Air pollution and tackling it are serious businesses in India. A big business opportunity. The solution needs to address two issues. The first is the one at the producer end. The second is at the point of managing it all once pollution has actually entered into our air streams and public spaces. As of now, we are managing it a bit too late, at a point of time when this pollution has entered into our lungs, repeatedly, over the days and years of our lives.

Air pollution needs two approaches. A preventive approach and a curative. Both are important for the country. At the end of preventive air pollution we need to be investing in filters that stop and break the spread of the insidious pollutant in terms of particulate matter that is all around us. We live in a world that has new technology in place for this very effort. Let's urge its use.

At the end of curative air pollution, massive motors and machines that can gobble up dirty air and spew out the clean air should be introduced. The new trees of the new future ahead of us. Sad, but true.

In between these two approaches, there is an urgent need to educate ourselves very quickly about the quality of air we breathe in today at home, in office, in our schools and colleges, and in every public space we love to thrive in.

As I urge you to look at this subject seriously, let us remember that every breath we take is a polluted one today. We don't drink polluted water, so why do we breathe in polluted air? The answer lies in the fact that we just don't know how polluted the air we breathe is. What we don't know, we don't care about. What we don't see, we don't give a hoot about. Not till it makes our every breath a loud wheeze we hear ever so loudly as we sleep.

A ROSE FROM HISTORY FINDS REBIRTH IN NEHRU

CHANDRAN T V

Art critic and author. Teaches art history at the College of Fine Arts, Thiruvananthapuram

Addressing a rally in Jodhpur in 2018, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said, "Those who went around wearing a rose had knowledge of gardens; they had knowledge neither of farming, nor of the sweat of farmers." This may be an amusing slice of rhetoric for many reasons. But pitting the rose against the sweat of farmers would be equally amusing in the case of the lotus, used for a political identity that the prime minister is associated with.

One may differ here: The lotus was an image, symbol of fertility and metaphor of beauty in the long cultural past of India. It still enjoys a sacred position and its "Indianness" is beyond doubt. One hardly thinks of the rose from a similar perspective. It is neither sacred, nor "Indian". It may sound true, as Nehru himself had put it once that "there is nothing special about" the rose on his coat.

What is truer is that an object assumes meaning once it comes into contact with human relationship. It is therefore inconceivable that the first prime minister took to the habit of wearing a rose with clockwork regularity for no special reason. This puzzle perhaps made the Congress offer an explanation in 2019 that he wore the rose in honour of his wife Kamala, who passed away in 1936. If this was precisely the reason, Nehru himself could have said it. Instead, he was evasive whenever asked. It gave rise to a few more speculations from various quarters, all of which invariably make no sense.

However, if one can find them meaningful, it is possible only with reference to Nehru's life; the same cannot be held true in the case of Giani Zail Singh, the former president of India, who buttonholed a rose every day exactly the way Nehru did. Why were these two modern rulers very particular in following a not-so-modern and unusual habit? Was there anything cultural or political in it? A counterpoint to the lotus and its Indianness? We are not sure. But history has something else to unfold.

A mural in the summer palace of Tipu Sultan (Darya Daulat) in Srirangapatna near Mysore shows Haider Ali and Tipu in two separate military processions. Mounted on horseback, they are shown holding a rose. Its description reads, Tipu "imperturbably smells a rose". However, it is interesting that they hold a rose so conspicuously that no one will lose sight of it. It implies the painters portrayed them the way the rulers liked themselves to be 'seen'.

Surprisingly, there are innumerable portraits of Tipu's contemporary rulers painted on the other side of the palace. Hailing from different religions and cultural spheres, they are invariably shown with a rose held conspicuously in their hands. Only a few of them are shown in a gesture of smelling it.

In the same manner, there are Mughal miniatures that depict Shah Jahan, Dara Shukoh, Aurangzeb, et al. Projection of the rose can also be seen more emphatically expressed in the portraits of the Qutb Shahi dynasty of Golconda (1518-1687). Incidentally, in a few paintings, Abdul Hasan, the last ruler of the Qutb Shahi dynasty, for instance, is represented not only in a striking gesture of 'showing' a rose, but his entire upper garment has roses richly embroidered.

The rose began to play a significant role in Indian culture after the advent of the Mughals. The first Mughal emperor, Babar (1483-1530), displayed enormous love for that flower. To cite an example, all his daughters had it in their names: Gulchehra (rose-cheeked), Gulrukh (rose-faced), Gulbadan (rose-body) and Gulrang (rose colour).

Akbar is sometimes depicted with a rose. But more often he is projected as divine king with a halo. Jahangir is usually portrayed with a globe or a sword in his hand, which visually translates his title "the world conqueror". Whereas Shah Jahan recurrently appears with a rose between his fingers. This variation bears different connotations. Shah Jahan with a rose sought to display in his portraits the image of a humanist king. Akbar and Jahangir followed the image of a god-king and hero-king respectively. The rose for Shah Jahan and many others was an attribute as important as the globe or sword for Jahangir, or what the divine halo was for Akbar.

With these subtle shades of meaning that the rulers were represented over the centuries, the rose seems to have been an important motif, more of a source of value than of a source of fragrance—to be shown as a symbol of political power with a human touch, which resounds today in the police force as its motto, "Firm but Polite". Hence the Mysore Tiger "smells a rose" and remains undisturbed in the battleground. So does his father "Tiger" (Haider) Ali.

With this symbolism and its fabulous visual expressions, the rose would have left a lasting impression on Nehru. Presumably, once in power, he reimagined it for projecting himself as "a powerful ruler with a human face"—his heart out on his political coat. Bear in mind his The Discovery of India and writings on Mughal history. Rose was another discovery for himself. It does not reflect knowledge of gardens, but knowledge of history and a rare sensibility to see a flower is not always a flower.

Don't ease lockdown now

The IMA's rap on Kerala's knuckles for its decision to ease lockdown restrictions on account of Bakrid is appropriate. Easing of curbs could be quite dangerous for a state that has reported Covid mutant strain breakouts and currently has one of the highest corona numbers in the country.

Kovind disappoints

This is with reference to How to preserve, protect & defend PM (Jul 18). It is painful that President Ram Nath Kovind appears to have given enough room for him to be presented in such a manner. One believes that he being a Dalit would have been only one of the reasons for him to be selected for the exalted position, not the main one. The success of the incumbent depends upon how he proves himself to be suitable for the post despite the caste card.

This is with reference to How effective is technology in education? (Jul 19). Since the introduction of technology in education, the difficulties faced by teachers and learners have been mentioned several times. An institutional-level research to assess the hurdles faced by both sides must be undertaken. An exclusive national policy must be framed for the use of tech in education, especially to tackle the unprecedented issues that arise due to the pandemic.

Be wary of the Dragon

This is with reference to India must stay strong on China (Jul 19). India must not fall into China's trap. Experience dictates that China never practises what it preaches. India must be wary of the nation's honey-coated words and continue to make our military strong to face challenges posed by Beijing and stay firm on border issues.

Standing up to China

India has been playing its cards well in response to China's manoeuvres, both diplomatically and militarily. The recent call by our PM to the Dalai Lama on the occasion of his birthday and our approach to Arunachal Pradesh are ample evidences of this. The editorial rightly points out that India is the only country that can stand up to China with its nuclear and military capabilities, a fact that Beijing is aware of.

Address vax hesitancy

The continuing issue of vaccination hesitancy among citizens needs more attention. The inoculation drive can be powered by children now, just like the various advertising campaigns on other health issues like smoking. An innocent question by a child about vaccination to their parents will act as a big push to the people who are not getting inoculated yet.

Pegasus row: Oppn demands Shah sacking

Also seeks probe into 'PM's role', to raise issue in Parliament; BJP says there is not a shred of truth in the allegations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

ACCUSING the government of 'treason', the opposition parties on Monday demanded the resignation of Union Home Minister Amit Shah and a probe into the 'role of Prime Minister Narendra Modi' in the Pegasus spying row, inviting a sharp rejoinder from the BJP which accused them of orchestrating conspiracies against the government.

The Congress mounted an offensive charging the government with compromising on national security. The party said it would take on board all opposition parties over the issue and decide whether to ask for a judicial or parliamentary probe into the matter.

The Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha, Mallikarjun Kharge, said Shah should immediately resign as he does not deserve to occupy the position he is holding. The government has not only attacked freedom of speech, but also the fundamental rights of people, he alleged. Congress spokesperson R S Surjewala said, "The person responsible for deployment of this illegal spyware Pegasus is no less than the home minister, who must be sacked."

The CPM said it had raised in Parliament two years ago how this dangerous spyware was being used in India, as revealed by WhatsApp. "With these revelations, it is clear that this government has engaged NSO for such surveillance against its own citizens. The central government must come clean on what is its engagement with NSO (the Israeli tech firm that created the spyware), what are the terms and how much our public funds have been paid for this," the party said in a statement.

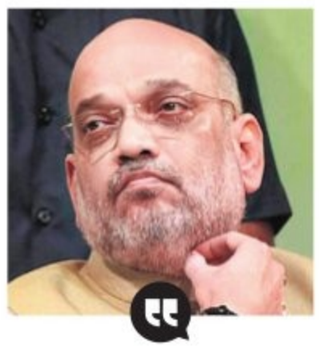
The Trinamool Congress said it will raise the issue in Parliament. "It is a serious issue and the minister in his statement in the House does not deny that the government was using the software. We will raise this issue in Parliament," said TMC Rajya Sabha MP Derek O' Brien.

Launching a counter attack, the BJP said the "false story" was broken on the eve of the Monsoon Session of Parliament with the aim to disrupt it. Senior BJP leader Ravi Shankar Prasad asserted there was no truth in the claims and not a shred of evidence' to link either the ruling party or the Modi dispensation with the matter. He accused the Congress of hitting a "new low" in making baseless allegations in a manner that was bereft of any political propriety.

Our first demand is the immediate sacking of Minister of Home and Internal security Amit Shah and a probe into the role of the prime minister in the matter —Randeep Surjewala, Congress chief spokesperson

REPORT BY DISRUPTERS FOR OBSTRUCTORS: SHAH

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi



NOTING it was "a report by disrupters for the obstructors", Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday dismissed the investigative findings of 'snooping' on politicians, journalists, activists and others.

In a hard hitting statement, the Union home minister asserted that the report was timed to cause disruptions in Parliament and used a phrase often cited by his critics against him. "People have often associated this phrase with me in lighter vein but today I want to seriously say — the timing of the selective leaks... Aap chronology samjhiye (please understand the chronology). This is a report by the disrupters for the obstructors," Shah said.

Poople have often associated this phrase with me in lighter vein but today I want to seriously say — the timing of the selective leaks... Aap chronology samjhiye (please understand the chronology). This is a report by the disrupters for the obstructers

Amit Shah, Union Home minister

He claimed that the report has been amplified by a few with the sole aim to "humiliate India at the work stage, peddle the same old narratives about our nation and derail India's development trajectory".

Shah added that the Indian people had high hopes from the ongoing Monsoon session during which "key bills for the welfare of farmers, youngsters, women and the backward sections of the society are lined up for debate and discussion."

He further added that "no less than the Prime Minister" had said that they were willing to discuss all topics in Parliament.

Disrupters, the home minister said, are global organisations and obstructors are some political players — both do not want India to progress.

"Disrupters and obstructors will not be able to derail India's development trajectory through their conspiracies," Shah added.

According to the report, three major opposition figures including Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, one constitutional authority, two serving ministers in the Modi government, current and former heads and officials of security organisations, scores of businesspersons and 40 journalists were also part of the list of potential or past victims, who were snooped upon after their electronic devices were hacked.

The report was published by The Wire in partnership with 16 other international publications including Washington Post, The Guardian and Le Monde, in an investigation conducted by Paris-based media non-profit organisation Forbidden Stories and rights group Amnesty International into a leaked list of more than 50,000 phone numbers from across the world that are believed to have been the target of surveillance through Pegasus.

PM Narendra Modi speaks to the media outside Parliament | SHEKHAR YADAV

Some can't digest more women, SCs & STs as ministers: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday couldn't introduce new members of the Council of Ministers in both Houses of Parliament amidst uproar by the Opposition MPs over various issues.

Modi lamented that the Opposition instead of appreciating the presence of a large number of women members in the Council of Ministers, was denying the opportunity of their introduction. "A number of new ministers are women, besides those hailing from Other Backward Caste. The Opposition parties should have appreciated them, but they are not being allowing the introduction. Such a negative mindset was never seen in the past," he said.

With no order in the House, the Prime Minister said that the papers for the introduction of the new ministers be considered to have been laid on the table of the House.

On the first day of Monsoon session, the Opposition persisted with its demands for the acceptance of the adjournment motions on a host of issues, including rollback of the central agriculture laws, phone tapping and others. The Lok Sabha witnessed repeated adjournments during the day, with the Speaker eventually adjourning the House for the day later in the afternoon.

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla also called upon the Opposition to allow the introduction of the ministers as per the tradition of the House.

Similarly, Defence Minister and Deputy Leader of the Lok Sabha Rajnath Singh, in his brief intervention in the House, slammed the Opposition for not allowing the introduction of the new members of the Council of Ministers. "This has been a long standing tradition of the House. It's painful to see that the healthy tradition of the House isn't being allowed," said Singh.

MUKHTAR ABBAS NAQVI APPOINTED DEPUTY LEADER OF RS

The BJP on Monday appointed Union Minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi as the deputy leader of the Rajya Sabha. Naqvi, who had earlier served as the Minister of State for Parliamentary Affairs, succeeds Union Minister Piyush Goyal, who was elevated as the leader of the Upper House. The change in the leadership of the BJP in the Upper House was necessitated after former leader of the House and Union Minister Thawarchand Gehlot was made Governor of Karnataka. Naqvi, the only Muslim face in the Modi Cabinet, is known for having cordial relations with leaders from across the political spectrum. His cordial ties could come in handy for the ruling party.

Uproar over nationality of junior home minister in RS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UNION Minister Nisith Pramanik became a sticking point on Monday, with the Opposition questioning the nationality of the newly inducted Minister of State in Home Affairs.

In the Rajya Sabha, the TMC MPs claimed Pramanik is a Bangladeshi — an allegation which was dismissed by the Centre which also slammed them for casting aspersions on the leader from a tribal community.

Without naming the minister, TMC's Sukhendu Sekhar Ray and Congress leader Mallikarjun Kharge asked the government to clear its stand over the nationality of Pramanik. "We will not let that minister speak on the floor of the house as he is a Bangladesh national," said Derek O'Brien, TMC floor leader in Rajya Sabha.

Objecting to the remarks of opposition members, Union Minister and Leader of the House Piyush Goyal termed the allegation as 'baseless', asserting there is no truth in it. "This should be expunged. It's an insult of a big leader and a large society to which he belongs," he said, adding such remarks were condemnable.

DELTA VARIANT

'40-60% more transmissible than Alpha'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FOR the first time quantifying the higher transmissibility of the delta variant of Covid virus, a top official said that it is 40-60% more transmissible than the alpha variant.

N K Arora, co-chair of INSACOG, a government initiative for Covid19 genomic surveillance in India, however, added that it was not yet conclusively established whether this variant can cause more severe disease. B.1.617.2, a variant of SARS CoV 2 was first identified in October 2020 in India, was primarily responsible for the second wave in the country. It now accounts for over 80 % of new Covid-19 cases.

"It is around 40-60 per cent more transmissible than its predecessor (alpha variant) and has already spread to more than 80 countries, including the UK, the US, Singapore, and so on," said Arora.

There have been studies that show on invading a human cell, this variant replicates faster which leads to a strong inflammatory response in organs like the lungs. "However, it is difficult to say that disease due to the delta variant is more severe. The age profile and the deaths during the second wave were quite similar to that seen during the first wave," he said.

On continued rise in cases in some states, including Kerala, the official said that most of these cases could be due to the delta variant.

Govt taking major share of vax this month: Assn

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

DAYS after the Centre's criticism on slow vaccination, an association of private hospitals asserted that the majority of the available vaccine this month has gone to the Central quota.

In a letter to the Union health ministry, the Association of Private Healthcare Providers of India said that since vaccine manufacturing ramp up is yet to materialise fully, most of the stock is picked up by government for distribution. Not much is available for the private sector and only after July 15, there has been progress on procurement of vaccines by private hospitals.

"It is, therefore, not correct to say that the private sector was not showing interest in vaccination," the AHPI said.

Of about 41 crore Covid vaccine doses administered in India — it is not clear how many were given out in private hospitals but sources said it could be in the range of 7-8 crore — a majority of which may be concentrated only in a handful of cities.

From June 21, the Centre took over the responsibility of procuring 75 % of the total available Covid vaccine while the rest is for private hospitals. In a review meeting, Union health secretary Rajesh Bhushan had last week termed the slow pace of vaccination at private centres as a "cause of serious worry". The AHPI, however, pointed out that many hospitals were unable to get vaccines for various reasons, which could due to absence of coordination at state government level and inability of manufacturers as well.

It also cited a July survey covering 70 private hospitals to gauge the status of supply of vaccines. About 77% of these hospitals were not getting supplies on time and 41% said that there were no nodal officers appointed by state governments in their localities. "It shows that the new system which was to come in effect from June 21, has still not been in full functionality and therefore it will not be correct to say that private hospitals were not showing interest in vaccination," the association said.

Af army chief to visit India, meet NSA & Naravane

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

AMID the precarious security situation in Afghanistan, the country's army chief is slated to come to India on a three-day visit beginning July 27, during which he is expected to meet important officials of the security establishment.

Sources said General Wali Mohammad Ahmadzai of Afghanistan National Army (ANA) will be meeting National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and India's army chief General MM Naravane, among others, during his stay in the country till July 29. However, the visit of Afghanistan's Deputy Minister of Acquisition and Technical Planning has been postponed.

Ahmadzai's visit holds significance given the recent successes of the Taliban fighters in expanding their territorial control by defeating the Afghan government forces.

The Taliban fighters and the Afghanistan security forces have been locked in pitched battles since the US began withdrawal of troops from the warn-torn country. The Taliban claims control over more than 50 per cent of the total districts.

In the past, Kabul has sought weapons from India, which has transferred four attack (Mi-24) helicopters and 3 Light Utility Helicopters (Cheeta) to the Afghan forces in past few years.

India has also been focusing on welfare activities and capacity building of the ANA with its officer cadets training in Indian military academies. India has invested around $3 billion in various infrastructure projects, including building of roads, dams and Parliament building, among others, in Afghanistan.

The deteriorating security scenario is a cause of concern for New Delhi, which recently evacuated 50 staff and security personnel from its Kandahar consulate in the wake of intense fighting, though the MEA said it was a temporary move.

Guwahati: The Assam government on Monday asked Muslims to celebrate Eid-uz-Zuha at home. The state's revised Standard Operating Procedure said a maximum of five people, including the religious head, would be allowed at a mosque for Eid namaz. Eid-uz-Zuha or Bakrid will be celebrated on July 21. The government banned all gatherings. It said curfew would be in force in five of 34 districts.

Poverty made Jadhav turn to sport to escape travails of daily wager parents

"PRAVIN is a ray of hope, we have a dream," said another villager.

Although not hot favourites at the highest level, the Indian team of Jadhav, Atanu Das and Tarundeep Rai is no pushover either. Having given a decent account of themselves in recent times, this team is ranked eighth in the world. They head to Yumenoshima Park, the Olympic archery venue, as dark horses. Poverty played a part in Jadhav becoming a sports star. He told Prime Minister Narendra Modi during the interaction with other fellow Olympians last week that if he had not taken up the sport, he would have ended up like his parents, as daily wagers.

Like other children in the village, he took to running as it cost nothing. But then, to be good at athletics, nutritious food is required, which his parents could not afford.

So local coaches suggested he take up archery and sent him for trials to Pune. After making his mark, he was sent to an academy in Amaravati and now he is ready to take on the world.

Ticking time bomb: 22K slums are landslide-prone

Lives of 1.5 lakh Mumbai people in perennial danger, fear activists

NDRF personnel at a landslide affected area in Mumbai on Monday | PTI

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

A day after 35 people died in a wall collapse triggered by a landslide, Mumbai officials on Monday started evacuating people from vulnerable areas. However, with 22,000 slums housing over 1.50 lakh people in landslide-prone zones, activists fear such makeshift evacuations are only delaying a major disaster waiting to happen.

In 2005, RTI activist Anil Galgali had sought information on how many slums lay close to landslide-prone locations and the government plans to relocate them. However, 16 years on, nothing much has been done by the Brihan Mumbai Municipal Corporation and the urban development department.

Chavan government ordered survey of vulnerable areas

Galgali alleged that after a few landslide incidents, Maharashtra former chief minister Prithviraj Chavan had ordered the officials to identify landslide-prone slums across Mumbai. "In the survey, 22,483 slums were identified as prone to landslide. There were 3,968 and 18,797 slums in South Mumbai and suburban districts, respectively. These slums were spread over 327 locations. Of 22,483, residents of 9,657 slums needed to be urgently relocated. Nothing has been done," he alleged.

Missing master plan

Galgali said the state government and the local authorities were more interested in constructing the retaining walls than locating the people. "I have pursued this issue with all MPs and MLAs, but have never received any positive response. Unless the government prepares a long-term plan to shift the people, Mumbai will continue to lose lives," the RTI activist said.

New survey coming

He recalled a meeting, wherein the administration had given in writing that a master plan for the rehabilitation of slum dwellers close to landslide-prone areas would be prepared in a month, but nothing was done. Attempts to contact Eknath Shinde, who is in charge of the urban development department, went in vain. However, the department said the figure of 22,000-odd slums was from an old survey, and a new study to ascertain the facts before drawing a master plan was in the pipeline.

Rains pummel city

Rains continued to lash Mumbai for the third consecutive day, leaving a trail of destruction across the financial capital of India. Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation said wall collapse incidents were reported from five places, but no life was lost. Power failure, inundation, short-circuit sparked fires and traffic snarls were reported from across the city.

In Navi Mumbai, more than 200 tourists were trapped after spate in a local river. Local authorities with the help of fire and rescue personnel evacuated the tourists to safety.

Vehicles submerged

Due to heavy rains, nearly 400 vehicles, including high-end cars and motorbikes, were submerged in an underground public parking lot built by the Mumbai civic body at Thakur Complex in suburban Kandivali. While the BMC did not put a number, it assured to look into the possibility of giving compensation to their owners.

Respect Stan Swamy, didn't anticipate death: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Monday said it conceded to the late Father Stan Swamy's every request as it had huge respect for the service to he had rendered to the society, but had never anticipated his death.

Reminding that it was the same bench that granted relief to another accused in the Bhima Koregaon case, Varavara Rao, Justices SS Shinde and NJ Jamadar said Stan Swamy's death had come as a shock to them. "No one says this is the bench that granted bail to Dr Varavara Rao. We permitted Rao's family to meet him during his stay in his hospital. We have always conceded to every request which has been made by you (Desai). When you approached the Court for transferring Swamy due to his medical condition, we conceded," the bench added.

Despite our best efforts, Stan Swamy could not be saved, the judges said.

While reiterating how he avoided watching TV and newspapers and generally had less time for himself, Justice Shinde said he watched the funeral. "I knew the time of the funeral, so I watched (on TV). And it was conducted in a dignified manner and graciously. It was graceful and the manner in which everyone spoke, so much honour and dignity..." Justice Shinde said, adding the legal aspect of the issue was an altogether different matter, but he had huge respect for Swamy's service to the society.

The court was hearing Swamy's bail plea posthumously and was addressing his counsel Mihir Desai, who said 'he was satisfied with every High Court bench that had heard Swamy's matters in the past".

Lashkar's role behind drone surge, says J&K DGP

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

AMID rising instances of drone sighting near the International Border and military installations in Jammu region, Director General of Police (DGP) Dilbagh Singh on Monday said militant outfits were continuously attempting to use drones for militant activities.

Chairing a high-level joint security meeting at Police Headquarters, Jammu, Singh said: "Lashkar's role has been established in most of the arms smuggling through drones along the LoC and International Border." He said that modern technology has been deployed to counter the threat.

On June 27, two drones dropped low intensity Improvised Explosive Devices on an IAF base in Jammu, damaging the rooftop of one of the buildings and injuring two personnel. After June 27, there have been about six instances of drone sightings on the border or over military installations in Jammu region. On July 14, BSF thwarted a drone activity on the Indian side of the International Border in Arnia sector of Jammu. The border guards fired at the drone forcing it to retreat.

Cong centre of gravity shifts by around 5 km in Patiala

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A day after Navjot Singh Sidhu was elevated as the Punjab Congress chief, the power centre in Patiala shifted by around 5 km from the New Moti Bagh Palace – residence of Chief Minister Amarinder Singh – to Yadavindra Colony, the parental house of Sidhu. Stating that his journey has just begun, Sidhu on Monday said he would fulfill the Jittega Punjab mission of Congress.

After spending the morning in Patiala amid a steady flow of supporters and well-wishers, Sidhu left for Chandigarh and called on the newly-elected working president Kuljit Singh Nagra in Mohali.

Later, he met Punjab Youth Congress president Brinder Dhillon and the outgoing Congress president Sunil Jakhar. After a series of courtesy calls, he chaired a meeting of around 30 MLAs at the residence of minister Tript Rajinder Singh Bajwa.

After the meeting, he met former chief minister Rajinder Kaur Bhattal. He was accompanied by MLAs Amrinder Singh Raja Warring and Kulbir Zira.

"On Wednesday, Sidhu will pay obeisance at the Golden Temple in Amritsar along with party MLAs," said Zira.

When asked about resolution to the differences between Amarinder and Sidhu, Warring said, "CM Amarinder is our very senior leader we respect him. The differences will be sorted out."

Soon after his elevation on Sunday night, Sidhu had visited Dukhniwaran Sahib Gurdwara in Patiala and offered prayers.

On the other hand Amarinder Singh reached his official residence from his farm house and held a meeting with a few cabinet ministers and 40 MLAs. An MLA, who was with Sidhu in the morning, also attended the meeting convened by the chief minister.

Sidhu had shifted base to Patiala from Amritsar in February amid escalating tension with Amarinder Singh.

Thanking the Gandhis for making him the state unit chief, Sidhu tweeted: Today, to work further for the same dream & strengthen the invincible fort of @INCIndia, Punjab. I am grateful to Hon'ble Congress President Sonia Gandhi Ji, Shri @RahulGandhi Ji & Smt @priyankagandhi Ji for bestowing their faith in me & giving me this pivotal responsibility.

SC flays Guj hosp fire norms delay

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday said hospitals have become huge real estate industries instead of serving humanity in the time of pandemic. The apex court also pulled up the Gujarat government for extending the deadline till July next year for hospitals to rectify the building by-law violations, and said the carte blanche notification was in total violation of its December 18 order last year. It added that people will continue to die in fire incidents.

"These hospitals have become like a huge real estate industry instead of serving the cause of humanity in the face of human tragedy. You (Gujarat government) have been extending the deadline, which cannot be done in view of our December 18, last year order. Hospitals are meant to provide succour to the patients in distress but instead they become money minting machines," said a bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and M R Shah.

Hospitals have become huge industries at the time of this tragedy and these kinds of nursing homes, running from two-three room flats in a residential colony, should not be allowed to work, the bench added.

"It is better that these hospitals are closed and the state should provide necessary infrastructure. We cannot allow these hospitals to continue working," it said.

Activist gets bail in FB post case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday ordered the release of Manipuri activist Erendro Leichombam, who was booked under the National Security Act (NSA) for a Facebook post criticising BJP leaders for advocating cow-dung and cow-urine as cures for Covid. A bench of Justices DY Chandrachud and MR Shah said that the person cannot be kept in jail even for a day for such an act.

"He cannot be kept in jail even for a day. We will order his release today," said Justice Chandrachud.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the government, told the Court that he will take instructions and requested that the matter be listed for Tuesday but the bench remained adamant that it will grant interim relief on Monday.

"We are of the view that continued detention of the petitioner would be a violation of right to life and personal liberty under Article 21. We accordingly direct that the petitioner shall be released forthwith subject to interim directions of this court and subject to further orders and him filing a personal bond of ₹1,000," the court ordered while directing that the order has to be complied with on or before 5 pm Monday.

DIGITAL FAME

Party before self, CPM tells fan-followed gen-X

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

DESPITE drawing a blank in the Bengal election, the popularity of the young crop of leaders fielded by the CPM has seen an uptick on social media platforms, drawing murmurs of protest from party elders, who believe the emerging culture of individual fan clubs does not gel with the tenets of CPM that puts party before self.

CPM had banked on youth power to gain foothold in its erstwhile turf by fielding many young candidates under 30, prodding their social media savvy followers to launch massive campaigns on digital platforms. However, two months after the results, the fan clubs carry on extolling the capabilities of individuals.

CPM state secretary Surya Kanta Mishra was one of the first to express displeasure over individual cult followings after coming across the Facebook fan-pages of Meenakshi Mukherjee, JNU scholars Deepshita Dhar and Oishee Ghosh, party's youth and student wing leaders Srijan Bhattacharya and Sayandeep Mitra.

Soon, politburo member Mohammad Selim, too, derided the emergence of individual followerships, saying, "The party does not believe in loyalty to individuals. It would be good not to have a fan-page."

However, there were dissenting voices as well. A member of the DYFI said: "If supporters create a fan-page, it should not be opposed as it would give our party electoral dividends."

40% BJP, 39% Cong MLAs have more than 3 kids

At a time when the first draft of UP's proposed population control law has triggered a national debate, any similar attempt in MP may well lead to 40% BJP and 39% Congress MLAs losing their jobs. As per data available with the Vidhan Sabha, 49 BJP and 33 Congress MLAs have more than three children. At least three ministers in the present government have five or more children. MLAs Walsing Meda (Congress) and Ramlalu Vaishya (BJP) have the most children (nine each), followed by BJP MLA Kedarnath Shukla (eight).

Pragya Thakur wades into in-home jab controversy

Bhopal MP Pragya Thakur waded into another controversy after receiving Covid shot at home at a time when low supplies have kept the jabs out of reach of the commoners. Takur received her first dose at her official residence in the posh 74 Bungalows area of Bhopal recently. The state immunisation officer attempted to play down the issue, saying Thakur was a beneficiary of a special drive for the elderly and the disabled. But the Opposition Congress was not amused, and wanted to know which of the two categories did Thakur (51, who was recently seen playing basketball and dancing in a marriage) fall into. In May, a similar controversy had erupted at Ujjain, where BJP MP Anil Firojiya organized a vaccination drive for his family and staff at his residence.

Scindia beefs up MP's air connectivity

Within three days of the much-awaited inclusion of BJP Rajya Sabha member Jyotiraditya Scindia into the Union Cabinet as the minister of civil aviation in the Narendra Modi-led Centre, the minister's home state got eight new flights in one go. Scindia himself tweeted the start of SpiceJet's eight new flights to connect his home state with Mumbai, Pune, Surat and Ahmedabad. Six of these flights started from July 16, connecting Scindia's home city Gwalior with Pune, Ahmedabad and Mumbai, while two other flights will connect Jabalpur and Surat.

₹100 for a selfie with Culture minister

Clicking a selfie with MP's Tourism and Culture Minister Usha Thakur will cost BJP workers `100. Explaining the rationale behind imposing the fee for a selfie, the minister said, "We all are aware that posing for selfies consumes a large part of your precious time. So it has been mooted that whoever clicks selfie will have to contribute `100 to the party mandal's treasurer concerned. The sum collected will be used for funding the party organisation." Usha Thakur is also the minister in-charge of Khandwa district. She was in the news recently for appealing to people (who could afford to pay for both doses of Covid vaccination, but still availed themselves of the free jabs to contribute `500 (`250 for each dose) to the Prime Minister's Care Fund. Thakur was on a short visit to Khandwa district on Saturday. During her interaction with party workers, she asked them to welcome leaders with a book, not flowers. "If you would offer a book, someone would read it and learn from it. So I request you all to offer a book instead of a bouquet," she said.

'FREEDOM DAY' IN ENGLAND AS COVID RAMPS UP IN ASIA

Nightclubs, pubs come alive as Britain lifts most restrictions despite surge in cases | Delta variant continues to sweep Asian countries prompting stricter curbs

LONDON

ENGLAND lifted most pandemic restrictions on Monday despite surging infections and dire warnings from experts, as the Delta variant sweeps parts of Europe and Asia.

As England celebrated so-called "freedom day" — dubbed as such by some media outlets — Vietnam locked down much of its population, while Indonesia clocked daily record deaths and in France lawmakers were set to toughen vaccine rules to battle rising cases. The highly transmissible Delta variant, first detected in India, is driving new outbreaks along with a relaxation of measures, as countries seek to kickstart virus-battered economies. In Britain, daily infections have climbed, averaging more than 50,000 since last week, with Delta taking hold in many areas.

Despite accusations against the UK government of recklessness, it lifted legal mandates on social distancing, wearing masks and working from home, urging personal responsibility instead.

Nightclubs in England reopened their floors to dancers at the stroke of midnight for the first time since March 2020, while sports stadiums, cinemas and theatres can now run at full capacity. "I thought, well, we missed New Year's, so why not come out and celebrate?" said Nicola Webster Calliste, 29, outside a club in Leeds, northern England.

Covid travel rules and self-isolation for close contacts remain in place. Prime Minister Boris Johnson — who is self-isolating after his health minister was infected — has defended the move, but urged people to remain prudent.

The government says thanks to a rapid vaccination programme, the risks to the healthcare system are manageable.

But the approach is marked by "moral emptiness and epidemiological stupidity", said University of Bristol public health expert Gabriel Scally.

Elsewhere in Europe, countries including Greece, the Netherlands and Spain, have been forced to reimpose restrictions to battle new outbreaks recently.

In France, cabinet members were expected on Monday to approve stricter vaccination rules requiring people to show either proof of full vaccination or a recent test to enter public venues such as restaurants, bars, shopping centres, long-distance trains and cinemas.

Police man a checkpoint as motorists cross Suramadu bridge to reach Madura island in Indonesia on Monday. Indonesia has emerged as the global Covid hotspot recently

Covid is known to have claimed over four million lives since late 2019 but, for some nations in the Asia-Pacific, the worst is still ahead.

Indonesia has in recent days overtaken India and Brazil as the global Covid hotspot, its daily death toll hitting a record 1,338 on Monday.

There are fears people travelling for the Eid al-Adha festivities could spread the virus, and authorities in the vast Muslim-majority country strengthened roadblocks on Monday for the start of the holidays. Vietnam ordered about a third of its 100 million people to stay at home in many provinces as it battles new outbreaks — with a record 6,000 new daily infections reported. AFP

Outrage over comparing jabs with Nazi horrors

PARIS

A FRENCH Holocaust survivor has denounced anti-vaccination protesters comparing themselves to Jews who were persecuted by Nazi Germany during World War II. French officials and anti-racism groups joined the 94-year-old in expressing indignation.

As more than 100,000 people marched around France against government vaccine rules on Saturday, some demonstrators wore yellow stars recalling the ones the Nazis forced Jews to wear.

Other demonstrators carried signs evoking the Auschwitz death camp or South Africa's apartheid regime, claiming the French government was mistreating them with its anti-pandemic measures.

"You can't imagine how much that upset me. This comparison is hateful," Holocaust survivor Joseph Szwarc said on Sunday during a ceremony commemorating victims of racist acts by the French state, which collaborated with Adolf Hitler's regime. "I wore the star, I know what that is, I still have it in my flesh," said Szwarc, who was deported from France by the Nazis.

France's secretary of state for military affairs, who also attended the ceremony, called the protesters' actions "intolerable and a disgrace for our republic." The International League against Racism and Anti-Semitism said the protesters were 'mocking victims of the Holocaust' and minimising crimes against humanity committed during World War II. AP

China condemns abduction of Afghan envoy's daughter

Beijing: China on Monday condemned the abduction and assault of the daughter of Afghanistan's ambassador to Pakistan Najibullah Alikhil in Islamabad. Silsila Alikhil, 26, was abducted on Friday and later released. "China hopes the victim can recover soon and that the perpetrators can be brought to justice," said Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian.

Israeli FM to visit Morocco next month

Jerusalem: Israel's foreign minister Yair Lapid on Monday announced he will visit Morocco on a trip aimed at cementing diplomatic ties between the two countries. The trip is expected in mid-August. "This visit will be the starting point for tourism and trade agreements, and for economic and political cooperation between the two countries," Lapid told members of his Yesh Atid party. AP

Ghosn escape: US man, son sent to Japan jail

Tokyo: A Tokyo court handed down prison terms for the American father and son accused of helping Nissan's former chairman, Carlos Ghosn, escape to Lebanon while awaiting trial in Japan. Michael Taylor was sentenced Monday to two years in prison, while his son Peter was sentenced to one year and eight months. They were charged with helping a criminal in the December 2019 escape of Ghosn, who hid in a big box that was flown on a private jet via Turkey to Lebanon. AP

Hypersonic missile test launch a success: Russia

MOSCOW

THE Russian military reported another successful test launch of a new hypersonic cruise missile on Monday.

Russia's Defence Ministry said the Zircon missile was launched from the Admiral Groshkov frigate in the White Sea. The ministry said the missile flew at a speed seven times the speed of sound and successfully hit a designated practice target more than 350 km (217 miles) away on the coast of the Barents Sea.

Russian President Vladimir Putin has said Zircon would be capable of flying at nine times the speed of sound and have a range of 1,000 km (620 miles). Putin has emphasised that its deployment will significantly boost Russian military capability. The Russian navy has conducted several previous test launches of the new missile, including one on Putin's birthday in October, and officials said the tests are to be completed later this year. NATO responded to the test with a statement that claimed Russia's missile development creates a greater risk of escalation and miscalculation. AP

Filipina alleges rape by foreign placement agency owner

Lahore: A Filipina in Pakistan on Monday accused a foreign placement agency owner of raping her on the pretext of providing her a job and moved a court here seeking police action against him. In her petition filed in the district and sessions' court, she alleged that Abdul Rehman, the owner of the agency, called her at his office in Cavalry Ground here on the pretext of providing her a job and raped her on July 7. She said an FIR was lodged against him but he has not yet been arrested. Judge Shafiq Abbas issued a notice to the police and summoned a complete record of the case. The Philippines embassy in Pakistan has also written to the SP of Lahore Cantonment, saying that the Filipina visited the mission and reported that she was raped by Rehman on July 7. PTI

Easter attacks: Failure to act on Indian intel highlighted in parl

Colombo: Sri Lanka's former prime minister Ranil Wickremesinghe on Monday highlighted in Parliament the police's failure to act upon the intelligence provided by India on the impending Easter Sunday suicide bombings that killed 270 people, including 11 Indians, in 2019. He said Harin Fernando, a minister of his government at that time, had informed him after the attacks that Fernando's father had warned his sister not to attend the Easter Sunday mass as there could be trouble on that day. "When the police did not act on Indian intelligence, would they have acted on Harin Fernando's information," Wickremesinghe said as he blamed the police for not acting upon the intelligence provided by India on the impending suicide bomb attacks. Zuma's graft trial resumes

JOHANNESBURG

THE corruption trial of former South African President Jacob Zuma resumed on Monday, more than a week after his imprisonment for contempt of court in a separate case set off rioting in parts of the country.

Zuma is accused of receiving bribes from the French arms manufacturer Thales related to the country's controversial 1999 arms procurement contracts. The trial is taking place virtually, but Zuma's lawyers may seek to postpone the proceedings so he can appear physically in court His imprisonment earlier this month triggered protests that escalated into widespread unrest in KwaZulu-Natal, Zuma's home province, and in Gauteng, the province that includes Johannesburg, South Africa's largest city. Zuma's supporters forced the closure of strategic highways and rioters ransacked malls and shopping centers in poor areas. AP

'Sudan seeking debt relief from Gulf nations'

CAIRO

SUDAN will seek relief from wealthy Gulf nations, aiming to get as much as 60 per cent of the African country's $30 million in debt to them written off, the Sudanese finance minister said.

The announcement late on Sunday by the minister, Gebreil Ibrahim, came after cash-stripped Sudan received a $14.1 billion debt relief from the Paris Club of creditor nations last week. Ibrahim said Khartoum would also ask Saudi Arabia, the UAE and Kuwait to reschedule Sudan's remaining debt for 16 years. The talks would also focus on a six-year grace period for debt payments, he said.

The Paris Club, a group of 22 nations that lend to governments in need, on Friday urged other lenders to provide similar debt forgiveness to Sudan, which is in a fragile transition to democracy following a 2019 popular uprising that led to the military's ouster of longtime autocrat Omar al-Bashir.

The club also agreed to reschedule Sudan's remaining $9.4 billion in debt to the group.

"What happened in the Paris Club ... is a significant achievement that would lead to more achievements," said Ibrahim. He added that Sudan's government would now work to attract investments.

The World Bank and the International Monetary Fund announced last month that Sudan has met the initial criteria for over $50 billion in foreign debt relief. Sudan's foreign debt is at $60 billion, according to official figures.

Sudan's joint military-civilian government has in recent months taken bold steps to try to revive a battered and distorted economy, in which smuggling is rife. AP

31 killed, over 60 people injured in road accident in Pakistan

LAHORE

AT LEAST 31 people, mostly labourers who were going to their hometown to celebrate Eid-al Adha, were killed and more than 60 injured on Monday when an overcrowded passenger bus collided with a trailer truck on a highway in Dera Ghazi Khan district of Pakistan's Punjab Province.

The bus was en route from Sialkot to Rajanpur when the accident took place. The majority of the passengers were labourers who were going to their hometown to celebrate Eid-al Adha on Wednesday, officials said.

The injured were shifted to a nearby hospital where medical staff confirmed the death of 18 people upon their arrival.

Minister of Information and Broadcasting of Pakistan Fawad Chaudhry in a tweet confirmed that at least 30 people have lost their lives in the accident near Dera Ghazi Khan.

He appealed to public vehicle drivers to drive carefully for the safety of passengers.

District emergency officer rescue Dr Nayyar Alam was quoted as saying by the Geo News that 75 passengers were on board the bus.

At least 31 people were killed and more than 60 were injured in the collision. All the injured have been shifted to Teaching Hospital, the report said.

Quoting an injured passenger a police official said the driver of the bus seemed to have fallen asleep and lost control over the vehicle that caused the accident.

Punjab Chief Minister Usman Buzdar expressed grief over the accident but didn't announce any compensation for the victims.

Interior Minister Sheikh Rashid expressed his sorrow over the deaths in the accident.

He said the incident was nothing less than a "calamity" for people going back home for the upcoming holidays. "May God raise the dead to a higher level in Paradise [and] give the family the courage to bear the trauma," he tweeted. PTI

HCL Tech Q1 revenue up at 20,068 cr; founder, MD Shiv Nadar steps down

CEO C Vijayakumar takes over; daughter Roshni Nadar Malhotra to remain as chairperson

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

SHIV Nadar who co-founded India's leading IT services firm HCL Technologies in 1975 has stepped down as the Managing Director and board member of the company. He will be the Chairman Emeritus and strategic advisor to the board. Nadar's daughter Roshni Nadar Malhotra, who was appointed as the Chairperson last year, will continue in her role. HCL Tech CEO C Vijayakumar will take over as the company Managing Director, the management said on Monday.

Nadar had co-founded HCL Tech more than four decades ago primarily as a computer hardware company. The Noida-headquartered firm has crossed more than $10 billion revenue in 2021." Shiv Nadar, Chief Strategy Officer & Managing Director of the Company, on completing 76 years of age, has tendered his resignation as the Managing Director as well as the Director of the company with effect from close of business hours on July 19, 2021," the tech firm informed the stock exchanges in a filing.

The IT veteran earlier attempted to sell digital calculators through his business Microcomp and later founded HCL Tech with seven other colleagues with an investment of ₹1.8 lakh. The firm later expanded to Singapore and sold IT hardware. Nadar currently owns nearly 60% shareholding in the company.

Meanwhile, the company's revenue for Q 1, FY22 grew by 2.2% sequentially at ₹20,068 crore whereas earnings before income and tax (EBIT) declined by 2.1% at 19.6%, the lower end of the margin guidance that the company had provided earlier.

The company said that the impact of one-time bonuses handed over to its employees during the June quarter worth ₹728 crore wasn't factored in while calculating the profitability. The company has been able to maintain a healthy cash flow of $ 2.05 billion despite a dividend payout of ₹4,344 crore.

HCL's contract value for the June quarter stood at $1.66 bn, up 37% y-o-y although the deal value almost halved sequentially. The deal-mix constituted of eight large services and four deal wins.

We have a strong and continued commitment to integrate sustainability and ESG priorities into our business as they are the key drivers for delivering strong value and building lasting and productive relationships with clients, employees and stakeholders —Shiv Nadar, Chief Strategy Officer, HCL Technologies

June retail sales 50% below pre-pandemic level

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NOTWITHSTANDING hopes of a quick retail rebound amid easing restrictions across the country, a closer look at sales data suggests a long road to recovery.

According to the latest business survey, the Retailers Association of India (RAI), pan-India retail sales in June were half of what they were back during the pre-pandemic levels of June 2019. However, this decline is still an improvement over retail sales in May 2021, which was down 79%, when most of the country was under some sort of a lockdown due to the renewed onslaught of the devastating Covid-19 wave.

"Retail businesses continue to be stressed and are finding it difficult to sustain due to restricted timing of operations and weekend closures," RAI chief executive officer Kumar Rajagopalan said.

The most impacted category was sports goods, which saw a 66% decline in sales in June, followed by jewellery (-64%) and footwear (-61%). Apparel and clothing sales stood at 52% below June 2019, consumer durable and electronic sales down 46% and beauty, wellness and personal care 57% below the corresponding period in 2019, as per the survey. As for consumer durables, the hike in product prices by companies due to rising input cost has also hampered demand.

The only bright spots were the categories which come under essentials. Quick service restaurants (QSR), where sales were down 10% in June compared to a 70% decline in May—both numbers compared with the corresponding periods in 2019. Ditto for the food and grocery segment which witnessed a dip of just 7% compared to 34% in May. Figures have been compared with 2019 as the year-on-year comparison may not have given a fair picture, considering the nation was under a complete lockdown during the same time last year.

East zone witnessed the biggest fall in June this year at 55%, followed by west and south with declines of 50% each and north with a dip of 43% compared to June 2019.

Second wave of Covid derails recovery

June sales were better than in May 2021, which was 79% fall

The wrost-hit segments include sports goods, which saw a 66% fall, followed by jewellery (-64%) and footwear (-61%)

Clothing sales fell 52% y-o-y while consumer durable and electronic declined 46%

Sebi, DRI still probing Adani group firms, govt tells Parliament

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Finance Ministry on Monday informed the parliament that several companies belonging to Adani Group is currently under investigation by various agencies and confirmed that three funds with links to Adani Group were indeed frozen by Sebi in June.

"Sebi (Securities and Exchange Board of India) is investigating some Adani Group companies with regard to compliance with Sebi regulations. Further, the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI) is investigating certain entities belonging to the Adani Group of companies under laws administered by it," Minister of State for Finance Pankaj Chaudhary told Parliament in a written response.

The company was in news for the accounts of three of its investors being frozen. A clarification was later issued by NSDL saying that these accounts are not frozen in the case of Adani companies.

"In a matter pertaining to issuances of Global Depository Receipt (GDR) by certain Indian listed companies, Sebi vide order dated June 16, 2016 had directed depositories to freeze particular beneficiary accounts of certain FPIs including Albula Investment Fund, Cresta Fund, and APMS Investment Fund," the minister told Parliament.

In the written response, Chaudhary ruled out any probe by the Enforcement Directorate.

Meanwhile Adani Group has issued a clarification. "Adani Group is a responsible corporate citizen and strongly believes in compliance of applicable laws and adheres to prudent corporate governance framework," it said.

"While we have always been fully compliant with applicable Sebi regulations, we have made full disclosure to Sebi on specific information requests from them in the past. However, we have not received any communication or information requests recently," it said. On DRI, it added the agency issued a show cause notice to Adani Power about 5 years back and the matter is subjudice.

FM downplays oil price hike, inflation concerns, says economy on recovery path

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday downplayed the high petroleum prices fuelling inflation and reiterated that fundamentals of economy are strong and India will continue to attract investment.

"The weight of fuels like petrol, diesel and other fuels in the total CPI-Combined is only 2.52%," Sitharaman said, adding that the CPI- combined inflation in June 2021 was 6.26%, as against the average CPI-combined inflation of 6.16% during 2020-21.

The prices of petrol increased 63 times and diesel 61 times between January 1, 2021, and July 9, 2021 and the price of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) increased five times during this period, the government informed the Lok Sabha on first day of the monsoon session, as many leaders raised the issue of high price of petroleum products.

According to the Minister of State for Finance Pankaj Chaudhary, excise duty collections in April-June 2021 was ₹1.01 lakh crore. Excise duty collection from petrol and diesel by the Indian government has increased by 88% to ₹3.35 lakh crore between April 2020 and March 2021, the government told Lok Sabha on Monday, adding that this was up from ₹1.78 lakh crore registered in the FY20.

This number includes ATF, natural gas and crude oil as well, along with petrol and diesel. But the fact that petrol remaining above ₹100 in many major cities is fuelling inflation in other products also, putting pressure on retail inflation.

In the last financial year also petrol price was increased on 76 occasions and reduced 10 times. Diesel on the other hand was increased 73 times and reduced 24 times. Quoting the FDI inflows, the Finance Minister said FDI inflows into India rose by 25.4% to reach $64 billion in 2020, from $51 billion in 2019, making the country the fifth largest recipient in the world in 2020, up from eighth position it held in the previous year.

"As has been witnessed in overall FDI inflows, India's strong fundamentals and market size will continue to attract market-seeking greenfield investments," she said.

Indian Bank profit zooms 220% on merger benefits, MSME loans spell trouble

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PUBLIC sector lender Indian Bank has recorded a net profit of ₹1,182 crore in the quarter ended June 30, 2021, marking a 220% jump from a profit of ₹369 crore during the same quarter last year aided by a steady growth in interest income and lower operational expenses. Sequentially, however, net profit fell 31% from the March quarter.

"After successfully completing the amalgamation during the previous year, the bank is now reaping the synergy benefits. Since we have achieved this level despite the challenging environment, we expect this to be sustainable unless we are hit by further crisis," said its Managing Director and CEO Padmaja Chunduru. Net Interest Income (NII), the difference between interest earned and interest expended, grew 3% to ₹3,994 crore during the quarter under review as compared to ₹3,874 crore. During the quarter, net revenue rose 13% to ₹5,871 crore. Non-interest income grew 41% on a year-on-year basis on account of higher recovery in bad debts and rise in forex income.

Operating expenses contracted by 2% to ₹2,399 crore in Q1 FY22 as against ₹2,448 crore in the corresponding quarter of FY21, resulting in cost to income ratio of 40.86% as against 47.06% last year.

On the asset quality front, the state-run lender saw gross non-performing assets (GNPA) ratio improve 121 basis points to 9.69% of advances by the end of June quarter. Net NPA fell 29 basis points to 3.47% during this period. Advances grew 6% to ₹3,89,625 crore in Q1 FY22 over ₹3,66,787 crore a year ago with retail, agriculture and MSME seeing a growth of 9%, 17% and 12% respectively. On a sequential basis, advances fell slightly by 0.2%. "While we expect demand in corporate loans to improve going ahead, the MSME segment has turned out to be most vulnerable with more than 15% of the MSME loans becoming sticky," said Chunduru.

Fresh slippages in the reporting quarter stood at ₹4,204 crore, of which ₹ 2,472 crore or nearly 60% came from the MSME sector alone. Retail, agriculture and corporate slippages stood at ₹712 crore, ₹379 crore and ₹641 crore, respectively.

NCLAT stays Videocon's resolution

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a setback to Vedanta, the successful bidder for Videocon Industries and other group companies, the appellate tribunal has stayed the resolution proceedings as approved by the Mumbai bench of the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT). The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) has stayed the NCLT order citing 'exceptional facts' presented by the appellant – Bank of Maharashtra.

The NCLAT has asked the resolution professional to maintain the previously existing state of affairs in the case and directed the latter to continue to manage the corporate debtors as per provisions of IBC till the next date of hearing on September 7, 2021.

Bank of Maharashtra had moved NCLAT against the June 8, 2021 NCLT order approving the resolution plan submitted by Vedanta. The appellant had argued that the amount offered to the dissenting financial creditors as per the resolution plan is lower than the liquidation value in violation of the provisions of Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC).

The resolution plan offered to pay ₹2,900 crore against the creditors' total claim of ₹65,000 crore.

SC to hear AGR case in two weeks; says there would be no reassessment of dues

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday reserved its order on pleas by telecom service providers (TSP) Bharti Airtel, Vodafone Idea and Tata Teleservices seeking to rectify Adjusted Gross Revenue (AGR) demands raised by the department of telecom (DoT). It, however, said it would hear the case in two weeks after listening to DoT's reply to the claims of arithmetic errors made by the TSPs in AGR calculations.

A bench headed by Justice L N Rao referred to the earlier order passed by the top court in the matter and observed that no re-assessment of AGR related dues can be done. The telcos submitted that arithmetical errors can be rectified and there are cases of duplication of entries.

Vodafone Idea, which has the highest AGR liability amongst telecom companies at over ₹58,000 crores, said that the figure is not cast in stone and the SC has the power to correct the arithmetic errors.

The bench observed that it was only looking at the bar on re-assessment which was imposed by earlier orders. The bench then asked Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, who was appearing for the DoT, about the issue raised by these telecos. Mehta said it would be little hazardous for him to make statement without taking instructions from the DoT. Within a day or two, I will get concrete instructions, he said.

The bench, said it would pass order on the issue. It added that some other applications, including those raising the question whether airwaves or spectrum can be transferred or sold by telecos as part of their assets, would be heard after two weeks. The apex court in September last year had said that telecos shall make the payment of 10% of the total dues (over ₹93,500 crore) as demanded by DoT by March 31, 2021 and rest amount to be paid in yearly instalments commencing from April 1, 2021 to March 31, 2031.

FB is well placed to deliver an expansion in RoE led by continued improvements in margins, opex and credit cost. A turnaround in the corporate cycle would also be favorable. We expect credit cost to moderate to ~1% by FY23E. Average RoE for the bank has been ~9% over the past six years. With earnings now gaining traction, we estimate RoE to improve to ~14% by FY23E.

MARKETS SLIDE ON FRESH COVID WAVE CONCERNS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIAN benchmark indices fell sharply on Monday after Asian peers faced massive selling pressure on account of rising Covid-19 cases in the region. Domestic market is also impacted due to early signs of a possible third wave in the United States and the United Kingdom that may very well delay global economic recovery. BSE Sensex tumbled 587 points on Monday to close at 52,553 while the Nifty50 fell 171 points to close at 15,752. Domestic market may remain turbulent on Tuesday after Dow plunged over 900 points as virus surge in the US escalate recovery fears.

Country's largest private lender HDFC Bank was the top laggard in the Sensex pack, falling 3.34% after it reported lower than expected quarterly profit (Q1FY22) on Saturday. Other big losers on Monday were IndusInd Bank, HDFC Ltd, Axis Bank, Bajaj Finance and Kotak Bank.

Lenskart raises $220 mn; value hits $2.5 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

EYEWEAR platform Lenskart on Monday said that it has raised $220 million in an ongoing funding round led by Singapore's Temasek holdings and Falcon Edge capital at a $2.5 billion valuation. This comes a month after the start-up had raised $95 million from global investment fund KKR taking the total transaction size to $315 million. The current round also saw participation from Bay Capital and Chiratae ventures.

With this, the vision of Lenskart is to grow exponentially in the coming 3-4 years, expanding its presence in India as well as scaling its growing operations in Southeast Asia and Middle East. The company aims to leverage the deep expertise and network of Temasek and Falcon Edge in these respective geographies, the company said in a statement.

The funding comes as the brand is rapidly scaling its operations overseas, maintaining the core proposition of omnichannel experience online and offline. The market opportunity, as per Lenskart, in these target geographies is expected to be over $15 billion by 2025.

"Lenskart envisions to have 50% of India wearing its specs over the next 5 years and become the #1 eyewear platform in Southeast Asia and Middle East over the next 18 to 24 months through organic and inorganic expansion. We're thrilled to have Temasek and Falcon Edge as partners and catalysts in this journey of elevating Lenskart to the next growth level." Peyush Bansal, founder and CEO of Lenskart said.

M&M recalls 600 vehicles to replace engines

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

UTILITY vehicle major Mahindra & Mahindra (M&M) is recalling around 600 vehicles that were made at its Nashik factory for inspection and replacement of their diesel engines suspected of premature wear.

The batch of vehicles manufactured between June 21 and July 2, 2021, were fed with contaminated fuel, the Mumbai-based company stated. However, it did not specify the names of the models that are part of the recall process.

"The inspection and subsequent rectification will be carried out free of cost for all customers, who will be individually contacted by the company," M&M said.

In February, the automaker had announced recalling 1,577 units of its newly launched SUV Thar with diesel powertrain to replace faulty camshaft, an engine part.

FIGHTING PERIOD AND PAIN

Swaroop Swaminathan tells the story of how Increased awareness, technology and better support system have allowed India's elite women athletes to manage their menstrual cycles in a holistic way

August 13, 2016. Fu Yuanhui, one of China's best backstroke specialists, begins the 4x100m medley final for her country at the Rio Olympics. She completes her two laps in 59.53 seconds, the second last at the first changeover. They finish fourth.

By Yuanhui's high standards (her best 100m backstroke time is 58.72 seconds), it's well outside her best. Speaking after the race, she goes to a place where women athletes seldom go. "It's because I just got my period yesterday, so I'm still a bit weak and really tired," she says. "But this isn't an excuse for not swimming well."

It shatters a glass ceiling because women athletes don't talk about menstruation after an event. It's considered taboo.

The wider community considering it taboo is one thing. In India, conversations around menstrual cycle were considered so taboo women's athletes wouldn't even discuss it with their coaches.

That is slowly changing.

****

The women's hockey team is expected to update a Google document each day. One of the questions is, 'was today your first day of periods?" The completed form is accessed by Wayne Lombard, the side's scientific advisor. They are also actively encouraged to keep track of it through various period trackers apps on their phones. If they can't get the hang of technology, they are asked to put tick marks on a calendar in their dorm rooms.

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

This kind of arrangement is not unique to the members of the women's hockey side. The holistic nature of planning can be seen across different disciplines as well as organisations.

Just ask Neha Aggarwal, head of partnerships and communications at Olympic Gold Quest (OGQ), one of several bodies established for the purpose of helping India's athletes excel (in Japan, almost a dozen women's athletes have direct links to OGQ). "We have been tracking periods of athletes, and our nutritionists and sports sciences team... we work closely with them," she says. "There is a certain level of trust, we are able to help them manage periods." It's a sentiment that's echoed right across the board.

How are the organisations helping? By spreading awareness. There's a wide range of options available depending on the athlete's own experiences in dealing with periods. Take the example of one of the most prominent of India's women's athletes at these Games. During her periods, she experiences painful cramps and heavy flow. In competition, she has no choice but to take painkilling medication. Painkillers, however, isn't common. Athletes who experience normal periods tend to go without them, even during something as big as the Olympics.

Saumya Khullar, who works with the Boxing Federation of India (BFI), illustrates with examples. "Options for Athlete A... I know if she uses a hot water bottle, she will be fine," Saumya, who worked with JSW Sports before moving to BFI, says. "That and some sort of diet modifications few days prior and during her periods. That's sorted. Take another player, Athlete B. It might be that she has to rely on pain medications after discussing with the team doctor. Maybe there is another player, Athlete C, who could have more aggressive symptoms... then there are conversations around manipulating that. That needs to be discussed with the doctor and the athlete themselves."

The work starts months in advance. It includes finding out if they suffer from iron deficiency as well as seeing if they regularly miss periods.

Saumya, who also monitors the menstrual cycles of all her athletes, individually gets in touch with the ones who have been missing their periods.

"A full series of decisions and interventions will take place to find out why they are missing periods... that's the important part. Getting a period is okay but if you are not getting it, that's something that can have short and long-term consequences."

Because Indian women are more prone to iron deficiency (considered a major public health issue in the country), they are screened for anaemia. "The way symptoms present themselves could also be systemic," Saumya says. "Because we know that iron deficiency anaemia is a public health issue, women are all the more prone. Even going to that level and identifying if an athlete is anaemic because if she is... then either she is experiencing heavy menstrual bleeding or her symptoms are exaggerated. Correcting all of that before the competition cycle is way important. In a nutshell, preparation should start months before the actual competition."

There is also more care shown towards diet just before and during menses. "If there is an athlete who is predisposed to have gut issues before her menses, then I would recommend her to start taking probiotics, garlic and banana just to promote good gut health. During menstruation, they need to be consuming energising food such as potatoes, spinach, brown rice and lentils," Saumya explains.

The main message, though, is 'keep a tab on your menstrual cycle' as research, both old and new, indicate chances of picking specific injuries increase during specific phases of the cycle. For example, a study by the British Journal of Sports Medicine suggests that "muscle and tendon injuries may occur approximately twice as often in the late follicular phase (follicular phase is the time from the first day of a period till ovulation). Another study, put out by the Orthopaedic Journal of Sports Medicine, suggests "an association between hormonal fluctuations and ACL injury." ACL injuries are still regarded as the worst injury an athlete can pick up.

Boats hired for sailing coaches

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

ALEXANDR Denisiuc and Ian Stuart Warren — the two coaches of India's sailing contingent — will be on the water now, prepping their wards for competition. Off the water, two charter boats were hired by the Yachting Association of India and the expenses have been cleared by the Target Olympic Podium Scheme (TOPS). Even the daily fees of the two coaches have been sanctioned. They are expected to get around 400 per day for at least 20 days.

A total of around ₹40 lakh has been approved after the YAI requested the SAI to facilitate boats, equipment and sailing kits. Denisiuc will now coach both Nethra Kumanan and Vishnu Sarvanan in the laser class, while Warren will coach the 49ers – KC Ganapthy and Varun Thakkar. Tamas Eszes, who trains Nethra in Spain, has been appointed Greece's coach. Hence, Alexandr has been appointed as coach for the Olympics. The hiring of the two boats will cost around ₹5 lakh each for the entire duration of 20 days.

The sailors have already started training in Enoshima, where their events will be held. The 49er boat of Varun and Ganapathy too is new and apparently had cost close to ₹40 lakh, including transportation charges from New Zealand.

Jitendra Dixit, YAI joint secretary, confirmed the sanction. "We had sent the proposal to the government and they cleared it," Dixit told this daily from New Delhi. "The coaches needed the boat and the charges are quite high. This would allow them to follow the sailors in the waters."

OLYMPIC UPDATE

Fourth Covid case in Olympic Village

The Tokyo Olympic Village was hit by a fourth coronavirus case on Monday A Czech beach volleyball player became the fourth case and the third infected athlete in the Village, where thousands of competitors are living in a biosecure "bubble". Elsewhere, a teenage female gymnast became the first American athlete to test positive at the Games, with a teammate also isolating as a result. Neither was named.

India look to seal ODI series

After an emphatic seven-wicket win by India in the first ODI on Sunday, there is little time for Sri Lanka to regroup as the two teams will be back on the park on Tuesday for the second of three ODIs at R Premadasa Stadium in Colombo. Here are the talking points...

WATCH OUT FOR INDIA'S FRESH AND FEARLESS BATSMEN

Within the first 10 overs of India's innings in the opening game, victory was done and dusted as the attacking strokeplay of Prithvi Shaw and Ishan Kishan made a target of 263 look woefully inadequate. For some time now, there's been a feeling that Indian batsmen need to go all guns blazing from the outset in limited-overs cricket even as teams like England are reinventing the wheel. When all of India's players are available, the dilemma will be how to accommodate players like Shaw and Kishan in the XI, but just enjoy their batting in this series for the time being.

KULCHA NEED TO KEEP STRIKING FOR CONFIDENCE

With the proviso that India's opponents aren't of the highest quality, Kuldeep Yadav and Yuzvendra Chahal would have been pleased with scalping four wickets between themselves on Sunday. They have endured a tough two-year period where wickets have been hard to come by. This series should aid their confidence, especially since they are playing on pitches that will assist them.

SRI LANKAN BATSMEN HAVE TO CONVERT STARTS

If the hosts are to mount a tougher challenge, they have to sort out their batting woes. The scorecard of the Lankan innings was riddled with batsmen who got starts without even one of them managing to convert it into a more meaningful contribution. Debutant Bhanuka Rajapaksa, in particular, showed promise coming in at No 3, but will have to carry on to have an impact.

AIFF extends Stimac's contract till September 2022

NEW DELHI: National men's team coach Igor Stimac's contract has been extended till September 2022 keeping in mind the Asian Cup qualifiers, the AIFF said on Monday. This was proposed by the AIFF's technical committee, headed by former India international Shyam Thapa. The third round of the Asian Cup qualifiers will run from February to September next year.

BFC to face Eagles FC on August 15

BENGALURU: The much-awaited Bengaluru FC's AFC Cup Playoff clash against Club Eagles FC will be played in Maldives on August 15. The winner of the contest will join ATK Mohun Bagan FC, Maziya Sports & Recreation and Bashundhara Kings in Group D of the competition. These set of matches will be played across three match days in Maldives on August 18, 21 and 24.

Tennis stars & AITA in war of words

NEW DELHI: The AITA condemned the "inappropriate and baseless" comments by Sania Mirza and Rohan Bopanna, who accused the body of misleading "everyone" by wrongly claiming it had paired him with Sumit Nagal for the Tokyo Olympics. The AITA had paired Bopanna and Divij Sharan for the men's doubles event but the team failed to make the cut.

US & allies blame China for massive Microsoft attack

NATO denounces China's cyberattacks for the first time following hack of MS software

TECHNOLOGY

WASHINGTON: The Biden administration in the US and Western allies formally blamed China on Monday for a big hack of Microsoft Exchange email server software and accused Beijing of working with criminal hackers in ransomware and other cyber attacks.

The announcements, though not accompanied by sanctions against the Chinese government, were intended as a forceful condemnation of activities a senior Biden administration official described as part of a "pattern of irresponsible behavior in cyberspace."

They highlighted the ongoing threat from Chinese government hackers even as the administration remains consumed with trying to curb ransomware attacks from Russian syndicates that have targeted critical infrastructure.

The broad range of cyberthreats from Beijing disclosed on Monday included ransomware attacks from government-affiliated hackers that have targeted victims — including in the U.S. — with demands for millions of dollars. U.S officials allege that China's Ministry of State Security has been using criminal contract hackers who have engaged in cyber extortion schemes and theft for their own profit, officials said.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department on Monday announced charges against four Chinese nationals who prosecutors said were working with the Ministry of State Security in a hacking campaign that targeted dozens of computer systems, including companies, universities and government entities. The defendants are accused of stealing trade secrets and confidential business information.

Unlike in April, when public finger-pointing of Russian hacking was paired with a raft of sanctions against Moscow, the Biden administration did not announce any actions against Beijing. Nonetheless, a senior administration official who briefed reporters said that the US has confronted senior Chinese officials and that the White House regards the multination public shaming as sending an important message.

The European Union and Britain also called out China. The EU said malicious cyber activities with "significant effects" that targeted government institutions, political organizations and key industries in the bloc's 27 member states could be linked to Chinese hacking groups. The UK's National Cyber Security Centre said the groups targeted maritime industries and naval defense contractors in the US and Europe and the Finnish parliament.

In a statement, EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell said the hacking was "conducted from the territory of China for the purpose of intellectual property theft and espionage."

NATO, in its first public condemnation of China for hacking activities, called on Beijing to uphold its international commitments and obligations.

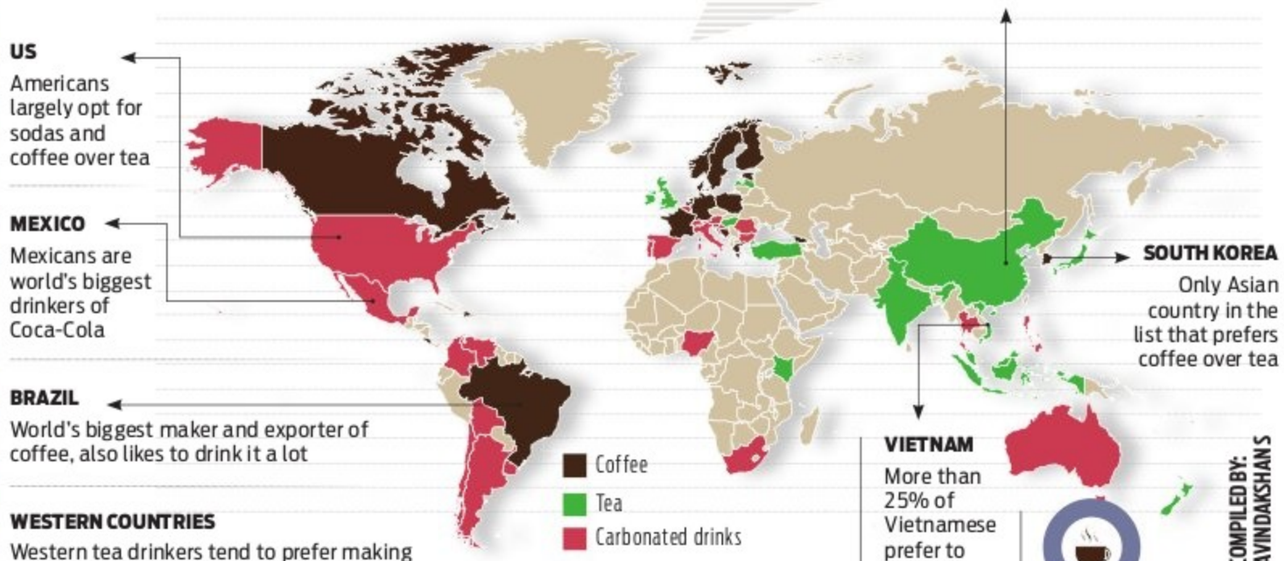
How the world gets its caffeine fix

Millions of people around the globe swear by the daily addictive rush that drinking tea, coffee or soda gives them. Caffeine, humanity's most-used drug, is particularly helpful in increasing productivity by giving the drinker a heightened focus, though the psychostimulant's absence causes withdrawal symptoms such as headache and fatigue. We take a look at the caffeine beverages that countries prefer the most

OUR FAVOURITE PICK-ME-UPS

Map shows most-bought caffeine drinks in 57 countries, as per Euromonitor data. Three kinds of beverages — coffee, tea & carbonated drinks — are colour-coded as the most-purchased drink



US
Americans largely opt for sodas and coffee over tea
MEXICO
Mexicans are world's biggest drinkers of Coca-Cola
BRAZIL
World's biggest maker and exporter of coffee, also likes to drink it a lot
WESTERN COUNTRIES
Western tea drinkers tend to prefer making tea with teabags, as opposed to boiling tea leaves/ powder in Asian nations, who also make more use of milk and sugar

WHAT ABOUT KIDS?
Authorities in many countries discourage the intake of caffeine drinks by kids, though Canada has set upper limits according to age. Curiously, Nigeria, South Africa, Greece and Mexico give tea to children less than 2 years old
CHINA & JAPAN
Green tea is the preferred drink, by infusion in hot (not boiling) water
SOUTH KOREA
Only Asian country in the list that prefers coffee over tea
VIETNAM
More than 25% of Vietnamese prefer to drink ready-to-drink teas

'Fingerprint' of long Covid

HEALTH

LONDON: Markers in our blood -- fingerprints of infection – could help identify individuals who have been infected by SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes Covid-19, several months after infection, even if the individual had only mild symptoms or showed no symptoms at all, say researchers.

A team of researchers at the University of Cambridge and the Cambridge University Hospital NHS Foundation Trust has received 370,000 pounds from the National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) to develop a Covid-19 diagnostic test that would complement existing antibody tests and will objectively diagnose and monitor long Covid.

Using the funding, the team developed a pilot project. They recruited 85 patients and collected blood samples from patients when they were first diagnosed and then followed up over several months. The team now hopes to expand their cohort to 500 patients.

In their initial findings, the team identified a biomarker – a biological fingerprint -- in the blood of patients who had previously had Covid-19. This biomarker is a molecule known as a cytokine produced by T cells in response to infection. As with antibodies, this biomarker persists in the blood for a long time after infection.

"We need a reliable and objective way of saying whether someone has had Covid-19. Antibodies are one sign we look for, but not everyone makes a very strong response and this can wane over time and become undetectable," said Dr Mark Wills, from the Department of Medicine at the University of Cambridge.

"We've identified a cytokine that is also produced in response to infection by T cells and is likely to be detectable for several months, and potentially years, following infection."

Myanmar may become Covid super-spreader

HEALTH

YANGON: With hospitals in junta-run Myanmar empty of pro-democracy medical staff and coronavirus cases surging nationwide, volunteers are going house-to-house to collect the fast-rising number of victims dying in their homes.

Hospitals around the country are empty of both doctors and patients because of a long-running strike against the military regime that seized power in February.

Widespread anger at the coup -- and fear of being seen to cooperate with the regime -- is also keeping many away from military-run hospitals, leaving volunteers to source precious oxygen and bring the dead for cremation.

Authorities reported almost 5,500 cases on Saturday, up from around 50 per day in early May, but analysts say the true toll is likely much higher.

The UN's special rapporteur for human rights in Myanmar last week warned the country was at risk of "becoming a Covid-19 super-spreader state".

Than Than Soe said two of her team had tested positive since the recent spike, and one has died. "Everything I hear is only bad news," she added.

UK children won't be offered vaccine unless vulnerable

MEDICINE

LONDON: Britain will administer coronavirus vaccines to clinically vulnerable youngsters, the government said on Monday, but not to all children due to an ongoing review into potential side effects.

Young people aged 12 to 15 with severe neuro-disabilities, Down's Syndrome, immunosuppression and multiple or severe learning disabilities will be eligible for vaccination, vaccines minister Nadhim Zahawi said.

He told parliament the move follows advice from the independent Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI).

Health Secretary Sajid Javid said he had accepted the recommendations "and I have asked the NHS (National Health Service) to prepare to vaccinate those eligible as soon as possible".Britain's medicines regulator has already approved the Pfizer/ BioNTech vaccine for youngsters aged 12 and over, noted Javid -- who is currently self-isolating after contracting Covid.

"Today's advice does not recommend vaccinating under-18s without underlying health conditions at this point in time," he said in a statement. "But the JCVI will continue to review new data, and consider whether to recommend vaccinating under-18s without underlying health conditions at a future date," he added.

Anyone about to turn 18 within the next three months will also be offered a shot.

Britain has fully innoculated almost 70 percent of its adult population, but is in the midst of another wave of the virus due to the emergence of the Delta variant, first identified in India.

Cases are hitting levels not seen since winter, although deaths and hospitalisations remain relatively low, and the government on Monday largely reopened England's economy.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Taiwan nod for local vaccine

MEDICINE

Taiwan's government on Monday said it had granted emergency-use approval to a coronavirus vaccine made locally by Medigen, with experts saying early data suggested it was similarly effective to AstraZeneca's jabs. The decision is a boost for the island, which has struggled to secure vaccines for its 23 million people. Medigen Vaccine Biologics Corp's vaccine has yet to finish clinical trials although it published promising phase-two data last month. Taiwan's health ministry said a panel of experts approved its use on Sunday and that the first inoculations for the public could begin as early as August. No details were given of its efficacy rate but the health ministry said there were no major safety concerns.

S Africa's life expectancy

DATA

Life expectancy in South Africa has plunged by several years as a result of the pandemic, the country's statistics agency said on Monday. South Africa has been the worst-hit country in Africa for Covid-19, recording nearly 2.3 million infections, of which 66,859 have been fatal. The surge has resulted in a one-third hike in the death rate, which rose from 8.7 fatalities per 1,000 in 2020 to 11.6 per thousand in 2021. The steep jump has translated into a drop in life expectancy, a benchmark of how long a person can statistically expect to live if born today. "Life expectancy at birth for males declined from 62.4 (years) in 2020 to 59.3 in 2021... and from 68.4 in 2020 to 64.6 for females," it said.

GLACIERS MELT

Climate change sees birth of 1,200 lakes in the Swiss Alps

ENVIRONMENT

GENEVA: Climate change has dramatically altered the Swiss Alp landscape -- at a quicker pace than expected -- as melting glaciers have created more than 1,000 new lakes across in the mountains, a study published on Monday showed.

The inventory of Swiss Glacial lakes showed that almost 1,200 new lakes have formed in formerly glaciated regions of the Swiss Alps since the end of the Little Ice Age around 1850.

Around 1,000 of them still exist today, according to the study published by the Swiss Federal Institute of Aquatic Science and Technology (Eawag).

That is far more than the few hundreds the researchers had expected to find at the beginning of the project.

"We were surprised by the sheer numbers," Daniel Odermatt, head of the Eawag Remote Sensing Group that carried out the study, said in a statement. He said the "marked acceleration in formation" was also surprising, pointing out that "180 have been added in the last decade alone".

Glaciers in the Swiss Alps are in steady decline, losing a full two percent of their volume last year alone, as per an annual study published by the Swiss Academies of Science.

And even if the world were to fully implement the 2015 Paris Agreement -- which calls for capping global warming at at least two degrees Celsius -- two-thirds of the Alpine glaciers will likely be lost, as per a 2019 study by the ETH technical university in Zurich.

The Eawag assessment showed that there was an initial peak in glacial lake formation in the Swiss Alps between 1946 and 1973, when nearly eight new lakes appeared on average each year.

After a brief decline, the lake formation rate surged between 2006 and 2016, with 18 new lakes appearing each year on average, while the water surface swelled by over 400 square metres annually. This, Eawag said, is "visible evidence of climate change in the Alps".

The inventory was made possible by troves of data gathered from the Switzerland's glaciers since the mid-19th century.

Barrier Reef outlook 'very poor'

ENVIRONMENT

The Great Barrier Reef's outlook remains "very poor" despite coral recovery over the past year, Australian government scientists said Monday, just days before a UNESCO ruling on the site's world heritage status. The United Nations cultural agency recommended last month that the world's largest reef system be placed on its endangered list because of damage to the corals largely caused by climate change. The Australian Institute of Marine Science (AIMS) said the corals were currently in a "recovery window" after a reprieve that followed a decade of harmful heat stress and cyclones. But such opportunities were becoming rarer due to the impact of climate change, the government agency, which has monitored the reef for 35 years, said in its annual report.

STARTUP WATCH

BACK STORY
Sookshmas is a Bengaluru based ed-tech startup incorporated in April 2017 and founded by IT professionals Kamlesh Jang Bahadur Singh and Ripika Singh. The startup went live with the full product in February 2020 as they began to provide a social media environment for students to spend time in different academic domains. Information related to medical, engineering, marketing, finance, social science, mathematics, languages among others can be shared and accessed by teachers and students respectively.

FINANCE FUNDA
The startup has bootstrapped an amount of over ₹ 1.5 crore.

USP
The ed-tech startup involves games such as quizzes and puzzles to help students understand various academic topics. According to the founders, students can also discuss/share problems/concepts/solutions/ideas with people of similar interest domains, even in regional languages.

TARGET AUDIENCE
The startup aims to target students and teachers across India. A network of over 17,000 students and teachers are part of the ed-tech startup.

BEAMING WITH CONFIDENCE

Just as she prepares herself for the Tokyo Olympics 2020, golfer Aditi Ashok, who has been carrying the Indian women flag high in the sport, tells CE the swings that helped her reach the top

PIC | AFP

ASHIM SUNAM

SPORTSPERSONS always dream to represent their nation in the Olympics, at least once, in their career. At 23, when Bengaluru golfer Aditi Ashok tees off at the Kasumigaseki Country Club in the Tokyo Olympics, she will become a two-time Olympian. She competed in the 2016 Rio Olympics as the youngest woman golfer in the competition as well. Having started to learn about the sport from the age of five, her quadrennial event appearance shows that she has come a long way.

In fact, she had only started swinging at the golf club as a family activity. However, Aditi played her first round of 18 holes at the Bangalore Golf Club as a six-year-old. And in no time, she was playing for other junior tournaments since seven and enjoyed competing against the boys and defeating them. Her impressive performances at various levels gave a fillip to her budding career which later helped her to compete in the Rio Olympics.

"I have always enjoyed playing golf, especially competitive golf. Till the age of 12, I competed with boys and winning against them was always fun and challenging. Also, when I was 11, I finished 4th in the All India Ladies Amateur Championship. So that was a big confidence builder. And at the age of 12, I started competing in under 18 and amateur categories instead of under 13 or 15. I always pushed myself to do better. All the success I had in my junior and amateur days both at the national and international levels made me believe in my decision of turning professional," says the Arjuna awardee.

However, a question always arises, how will the person who decides at an early age to take up sports professionally, can strike a balance between the game and his/her studies. Aditi too had her share of challenges. When she travelled for tournaments, it meant that she would have to miss classes, but her friends came to her rescue and helped her to catch up with the school work.

"It wasn't easy. But I must credit my school The Frank Anthony Public School for supporting my dreams and aspirations. If not for the school, I would not have gone so far in golf," she says, adding, "And of course my parents and friends in class helped me catch up with school work whenever I used to travel and miss school." She is a regular on the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) and the Ladies European Tour (LET). The city girl, who has won three LET titles has been in decent form of late, and even came close to a maiden LPGA success when she paired with Thailand's Pajaree Anannarukarn at the Dow Great Lakes Bay Invitational over the weekend, where they finished tied-third.

"I have played well leading up to the Games, so I hope I can carry that momentum and have a great week," says the golfer.

THAT'S A RAP

Medical practitioners channelled their creativity to express the struggles many like them face during these difficult times

EXPRESS FEATURES

THE pandemic has been hard on many and particularly so for doctors. The heightened emotions prompted Dr. Bhaskar M V, a consultant neonatologist, Dr. Sandeep H S, a consultant pulmonologist and Dr. Gourishankar Reddy Manne, a consultant intensivist, to express their emotions in a creative way. The result was 'Doctor's Karma'- a Kannada rap song that narrates the story of each and every doctor. Written by Bhaskar, the song also has vocals and rap by all the three doctors and music composed by Raghu Dixit, the Indian folk-rock musician.

Since its premiere on July 11, the song has garnered more than two lakh views. "We made this song for two reasons -to boost the morale of the healthcare fraternity during this pandemic and secondly, to do awaywith the misconception that we doctors were not doing enough. There was a lack of communication between the public and us, so we wanted to build the trust to get the system to work well," says Manne.

The song conveys various struggles a medical professional has to face, right from the pressures of studying to be qualified to the various instances of violence doctors have had to endure in the pandemic. "We named it 'Doctor's Karma' because it is all about the good and bad things in life that a doctor has to go through," says Bhaskar, adding that though they decided it would be a rap song, neither of them had any idea of what it would entail. "It took us all five-six takes to record the song to perfection," he says with a laugh.

The doctors approached Dixit during the first wave of the pandemic, wherein he helped them with the composition of a song. "What I liked the most about the lyrics was its honesty. And that helped add so much more conviction to what they were trying to convey," says Dixit, adding that by the time the video was shot - which took place in the premises of a city-based hospital - things had already started to look up in India.

"There was an air of positivity all around and it didn't make sense to drop the song that time. Unfortunately, the second wave hit and in the light of all the assault and violence doctors were facing, it made sense to release the song now," said the composer-singer who made his acting debut with 'Bang'.

Meanwhile, the song always provided the medics the respite they needed. "We would go to Raghu Dixit's studio to record the song around midnight, after a long day at the hospital. There was laughter and good cheer. We dedicated all our free time to this project and it proved to be a great stressbuster," says Sandeep.

The song is available on Raghu Dixit's YouTube channel.

With celebrities and netizens indulging in photo dumps, here's what you should know about the trend

ANIKA GOMEZ

WHAT does a statue, cardboard box, getting tested for Covid, a piano by the side of a road and a blue neon sign have in common? These are the photos featured in Timothee Chalamet's Instagram photo dump. A photo dump refers to the Instagram trend where users post a carousel of pictures. Users 'dump' multiple pictures at once. Whether the pictures follow a theme or are randomly chosen is left to the user's discretion. Went out with a friend? Forgot to post a picture of a nice outfit you wore a week ago? Post them. Baked cookies? No one's stopping you from adding that picture as well.

Using Instagram's slideshow feature, users can post an assortment of pictures-an album of sorts. While social media is often used to showcase the highlights and most glamorous parts of our lives, this trend may be pushing users to portray their authentic selves. The random assortment of pictures in a photo dump is what made this trend succeed. Without the imposition of having to edit and pick the best pictures, users have the freedom to experiment.

Nandini Sethi, chief editor at Beyond the Panorama, an online magazine that also offers social media consulting services, says, "Photo dumps bring back the very purpose of social media, where you can be free to express your creativity." "You can post anything, without having to constantly seek approval from friends and think about it a hundred times. You can go crazy and just have fun," she adds.

With the likes of A-list celebrities like Ariana Grande and Kylie Jenner indulging the trend, photo dumps have become a part of the Instagram culture. Another factor that contributed to its growing popularity was the imposition of worldwide lockdowns. Being confined at home certainly allowed people to take notice of the mundane things around them. "People began to see beauty in simplicity because their previously fast-paced lives had come to a standstill," says Shriya Mandira, a college social media manager

Speaking about whether this trend was a reaction to the circumstances, she says, "Social media became more realistic. It was exciting because I had never posted such random pictures." Who knew that a carousel of pictures could be so inspiring? With over 400,00 posts under the #photodump, the popularity of the trend pushes social media in the direction of authenticity. "Seeing other people reveal all parts of their lives and not just aesthetically pleasing pictures and highlights made me feel like we're all sailing in the same boat," Mandira adds.

- Potatoes: 3 medium, peeled and diced
- Green peas: 1 cup
- Asafoetida: 1 pinch
- Red chilli powder, turmeric and garam masala: 1/2 tsp each
- Water: 1.5 cups ■ Salt as required
- Coriander leaves: 2 tsp

METHOD

- Grind onions, tomatoes, ginger and garlic without adding water, and keep aside.
- Heat oil in a pan, crackle the cumin seeds. Add the onion-tomato paste, malai. Saute till oil separates.
- Add asafoetida, red chilli powder and turmeric. Stir in the peas and potatoes. Saute for a minute. Add water and salt as required.
- Cover the pan, simmer and cook for about 20 to 30 minutes. You can alter the consistency of the curry by adding less or more water.
- Sprinkle garam masala powder and coriander leaves.
- Serve hot with poori, chapati, naan, paratha or steamed rice.

FIT BIT

UBHAYA URDHVA PARIVRTTA JANU SIRSASANA

(STANDING REVOLVED KNEE TO HEAD POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'ubhaya' means both, 'urdhva' means upward, 'parivrtta' means revolved, 'janu' means knee, 'shirsa' means head and 'asana' means pose. With dedicated practice we learn not to lose our balance and focus when faced with unexpected situations. This standing asana is an extreme stretch of the hamstring muscles and the gluteus maximus. Leaning forward, gives a good stretch to the calf and hamstrings. This must be performed under expert guidance.

STEPS

- Stand in Tadasana (Mountain Pose). Bend your left knee at a 90 degrees angle.
- Balance your body on your right leg and keep your back straight.
- Hold the big toe of your left foot with your left hand and straighten your left knee to extend your leg sideways. If you are not able to reach your big toe, hold your shin bone with your left hand.
- Slowly pull your leg closer to your upper body without bending your knee.
- Hold your left ankle with your right hand and press your left elbow to your left upper thigh.
- Turn your head to your right and look up at the ceiling.
- Try to stay in this pose for 3 to 6 breaths.
- To come out of this pose, bring your leg down and come back to Tadasana (Mountain Pose).
- Repeat the pose with your right leg for the same length of time.

BENEFITS

- Regular practice helps calm the mind.
- Relieves headaches and insomnia.
- Stretches the sides of the body and inner thighs, promoting spinal flexibility and balance.
- Tones reproductive organs and helps increase blood circulation in the pelvic region and legs.
- Improves concentration, balance.
- Leg muscles become very strong.
- Helps improve digestion.
- Regular practice stretches and strengthens the knees and ankles.
- Reduces menopausal and menstrual discomforts.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who have sciatica, hip problems or hernia, avoid this.
- To prevent strained muscles and torn ligaments, avoid this.
- It should be practised only on an empty stomach.
- People suffering from severe ankle, knee, hamstrings or back injuries, avoid.
- Do not perform this during pregnancy, if you are not an experienced practitioner.

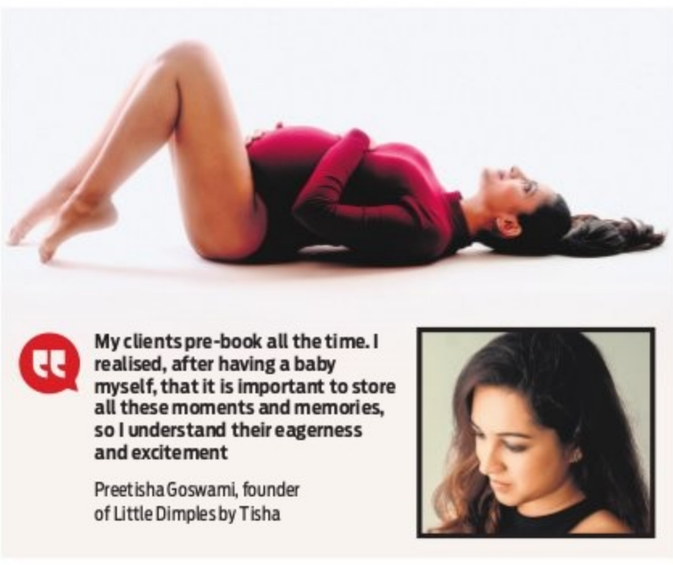
MOMMY & ME PHOTOSHOOTS

Maternity photo sessions are the in thing these days, with couples wanting to capture every moment of this journey

SHRIYA RAJACHANDRA

Motherhood is being brave and nurturing that selfless love for one's children. Though it shines in all seasons but children grow older with time. Hence, documenting the maternity phase for many has now become all the more important. Earlier, taking pictures of the maternity phase was unheard of but over the past few years, we have seen a growing trend in professional maternity photoshoots. To get an overall view of maternity photoshoot as a profession and the growing trend among would-be moms, we speak to mothers and photographers in the city to understand their experiences.

Amrita Samath, founder and photographer of 'Mommyshotsby Amrita', started her venture in 2013 when no one else was in the business of maternity and child photography. The journey wasn't a cakewalk though. "A mother's bump doesn't have to be something you cover up or something you stick to a taboo too. But that opening up has created a huge trend in the country. And what India shied about earlier, has now become such an open approachable trend where everyone wants to go through the maternity phase with a photoshoot, to remember it by," she says.



> My clients pre-book all the time. I realised, after having a baby myself, that it is important to store all these moments and memories, so I understand their eagerness and excitement
> Preetisha Goswami, founder of Little Dimples by Tisha

This job of capturing precious moments between families and couples is a privilege for Samath. "I see so much love every day between families and couples; this job is an absolute privilege. You walk into the shoot with whatever mood you are in but when you exit these shoots there are endorphins running through you. One, because there is a lot of activity, but second is that you are walking away after being a part of someone's beautiful journey that you have documented."

Seeing the popularity of the maternity photoshoot concept, couples are pre-booking slots with photographers. Founder of Little Dimples by Tisha, Preetisha Goswami, says, "My clients pre-book all the time. I realised, after having a baby myself, that it is important to store all these moments and memories, so I understand their eagerness and excitement. My motto as a photographer is to capture and preserve these moments while making them enjoy the experience."

For Anthony Pratap, the founder of Nevervoid Photography, this trend is not only for those who want to post on social media. He says, "Celebrities have influenced people to follow the trend but not everything is for social media. It works in two different ways. Some want it for social media but there is another kind, those who want to make these memories and keep them very personal to them. But our job is to document the moments that stay with them for long."

Bengaluru-based Leena Sheth, a mother of two, had a maternity shoot whilst carrying her firstborn. "This trend is a testament to the emotional attachment associated with the fact that your life is going to change. Sometimes, it is also fashion. But personally, I wanted the photoshoot because I wanted to document this emotional and life-changing phase of life. I also believe that, when you show these pictures to your child, later, it builds a sense of attachment and belongingness between the child and the parent," she adds.

Want to know how to get your music heard? Read on for tips and tricks of the trade

People often ask what the best way to release a song is. One you've got a song recorded, the next step is to figure out how to get it out there and to get as many people as possible to listen it

Here are some tips on how to get your music heard

1. Post on all social media platforms - each social media platform has its own algorithm and its own way of measuring metrics. Read up on how to get the most out of your platform of choice. If you're trying to promote yourself on Instagram, saves and shares are more important than likes. Make content that people want to share with others or that they want to keep coming back to.
2. Have multiple ways in which you present your song - If you have a song, one post isn't enough. Have an announcement post, some behind the scenes details, snippets and the final song. After the song is released thing of releasing different versions - like a lyric video or a remix.
3. Engage with your audience - Your audience is everything. Especially when you are starting out, give your audience a chance to connect with you. Have a live session, run a contest, thing of fun ways people who like your music can give you feedback. Listen to what people like and what they want more of.
4. Get people to share - Even if you're just starting out, ask your circle of family and friends to share your music. This can be on social media or through a WhatsApp broadcast list or any other way - word of mouth is important!
5. Make your music available for streaming - Spotify, Apple Music, Saavn, Gaana make sure your music is where your audience is. You can often find a single distributor like TuneCore or CDBaby that can have your music listen on all these platforms at once.
6. Make your music available in audio libraries - If you make your music available in audio libraries, people can use them as background music for Reels or YouTube videos.

Remember that building an engaged audience depends on consistency. Keep creating on a regular basis and sharing!

Malleswaram: Change and nostalgia are the constants

Malleswaram, which along with Basavanagudi, captured RK Narayan's fancy to mentally combine the two localities to create the fictional Malgudi town of his famous Malgudi Days, was once an area where 'townside folks' refrained from visiting "because of the distance".

Distance wasn't the only thing. They also felt insecure to go through a forested area to reach houses surrounded by forests (the area was called Kadu Malleswaram, kadu meaning 'forest' in Kannada).

It was the back of the beyond. And although I am talking of the 1940s (as reported by my parents and grandparents), I got to see the same apprehensions among people over visiting Malleswaram even in the mid-1980s, despite the area fairly developing with better road connectivity. No surprise then that most of our friends who lived in south or southeast Bengaluru (then Bangalore) always insisted on us visiting them rather than the other way round. Most of them still have a tone of surprise when I inform them of my dwelling location: "Oh! You are still in Malleswaram?!"

About a decade-and-a-half ago when I was looking for a place in the not-so-distant RT Nagar, the broker placed a wager: "I bet you are not going to move here."

"Why do you say that? I asked.

"You are from Malleswaram. You Malleswaramites are a pretty pampered lot! You guys hardly leave that area!" he said. He was proved right, and I was fortunate to have resisted the bet, although I realised a little late that I am one of those Malleswaramites who stays one.

Malleswaram was once outside the city limits; today it is the centre of Bengaluru, with much development happening in the far northern parts of the city, thanks to Bengaluru's international airport in Devanahalli.

But the vestiges of the forest area that once was Malleswaram still persist. No medium-sized building in Malleswaram - and the human inhabitants - is spared by visits from troops of monkeys who make forays into human habitats, which were once completely theirs. The grounds where buildings stand today were covered by trees offering abodes to the simians.

The area was known for ancestral properties, which have since undergone joint development to allow rising structures to replace the past glory. Right in the middle of Malleswaram stands the bungalow of Sir Chandrasekhara Venkata Raman, who won the Nobel Prize in Physics to become the first Asian to receive the award in a science branch. This is among a handful of heritage properties still standing in Malleswaram, the rest having bowed out to joint development.

There is a building in Malleswaram that is somewhat different. When it was built, the owners refused to axe the single coconut tree which stood in the middle of the property. So the building was built around it in such a manner that the tree rises through the centre of the building and pops out of the terrace.

Every time I pass that building I am reminded of how Malleswaram has changed despite small efforts like these to save a single tree while development took place all around. Most of those embracing joint development are not doing that, instead opting for 'clearing up' the land so a concrete structure comes up without hindrance from trees.

The change is such that a friend who was brought up in Malleswaram and who had returned for a brief visit with his family from the USA two years ago could not recognise his lane or the land on which stood his house where he had grown up. They say change is the only thing that is constant, and that is not exclusive to Malleswaram. But with that constant is another. It is called nostalgia.

Loving yourself to love others

Can you really love another person wholly and truly if you don't love yourself just as well?

Some researchers say that we are all born with only self love. As infants, we know nothing but our hunger, our comfort or discomfort, and only seek to fulfill our own needs, and we find love by way of seeking to fulfil those needs. Seeing consistent parenting that seeks to make the baby comfortable, warm and cared for teaches the baby that the baby is loved, and from that feeling of being loved, the baby learns to love as well. When there is inconsistent care, or poor care, or abuse, the baby does not quite learn to love itself or its caregivers appropriately. Either the baby learns to say it is ok but the world is not, or that the people around are worthy of love but the baby is not, or that everyone is horrible and there is no such thing as love. The theories then go on to say that when they grow up, unless there are other corrective experiences, the baby goes on to become an adult holding the same thoughts, and when its turn comes to be a parent, the cycle repeats itself.

While at first reading it all sounds quite possibly true, if we think about it deeper, we have to ask ourselves if our ability to give and receive love as an adult depends on how we have received love in the past? Couldn't there be a different force at play? What if we argue for a moment that children who never knew consistent love, when they find it, will lap it up like a dry sponge soaks up water? To use the analogy of the sponge further, a fully wet sponge can hardly be expected to soak up more water, and does that them imply that people who have experienced a whole lot of love would no longer be able to take any love? If you look at celebrities who no longer can take any adulation from fans, it might seem like that, no?

Early trauma might impact how well we trust, or how vulnerable we feel, and because of that, it might impact how open we are, but it is a stretch to say it changes the very capacity to love. We may not love ourselves much but can still take being loved, or might be able to love very dearly. We would be doing a disservice to people who are already hurting by telling them they can't love others unless they learn to love themselves.

When we are able to feel loved consistently whether as an infant or as an adult, we are likely at some point to start thinking of ourselves as lovable. We might distrust the attention at first, but when we can see it is real, we will quite likely open ourselves to it and through it love ourselves more dearly.

Love has the power to heal, even the wounds not being loved left in us.

Yogi and Krishi Thapanda

RELEASE DATE OF YOGI'S LANKE FIXED FOR AUG 20

Director Ram Prasad is happy that the film is releasing on Varamahalakshmi

CE FEATURES

Karnataka government now permitted cinema halls to function with 50 per cent occupancy from July 19, which has finally given some respite to filmmakers of the state. Among many films getting ready for release is Yogi-starrer Lanke, directed by Ram Prasad. The film will hit the theatres on August 20 on the occasion of Varamahalakshmi.

Confirming the release date with CE, the director says, "We are ready with the film and waiting for cinema halls to reopen. It is special as the film is releasing on Varamahalakshmi." The film, produced by Patel Srinivas and Surekha Ram Prasad, is a modern twist to the Hindu epic Ramayana.

While Yogi is playing the role of Rama, Kavya Shetty becomes Ravana in the film. Naanu Mathu Gunda music director Karthik Sharma has composed music for Lanke, and it has Ramesh Babu handling the cinematography.

Lanke also stars Krishi Thapanda and Ester Noronha. The film also features late actor Vijay sanchari, who will be seen in a prominent role.

IKKAT IS A UNIQUE LOCKDOWN CINEMA

A SHARADHAA

Nagabhushana and Bhoomi Shetty, lead actors of Ikkat, share the experience of shooting this hilarious comedy during lockdown

For actor Nagabhushana, Ikkat will be a special project for a couple of reasons. One, the actor who has entertained people as a character artiste, will be making his debut as a hero. Secondly, the film also marks his first OTT release. The comedy-drama, which is set right in the middle of the lockdown, will be out globally on July 21 in India and across 240 countries. The film is presented by Pawan Kumar Studios and Rocket Science Entertainment Production and directed by duo Esham and Haseen Khan. Ikkat will be a roller-coaster ride filled with some great laughs, say lead actors Nagabhushana and Bhoomi Shetty in this interview with CE.

The project came Nagabhushana's way during the lockdown when he was craving for some work. "Incidentally, the subject revolved around lockdown, something we were disappointed about. The best part was though the film is about a sensitive issue like the pandemic, we had to bring out a witty bag of laughs with it. I thought it would be exciting," says Nagabhushana.

He adds, "The film follows the story of an unhappy couple planning for a divorce. However, the lockdown forces them to spend time with each other. This line was enough for me to accept this role."

Ikkat means congestion or a tight situation. "That's how the whole shooting experience was. The entire shoot happened in a house measuring 20x30 space," he says.

Bhoomi Shetty, who is making her transition from TV to the big screen, says, "The whole Ikkat subject is based during the first lockdown that we had in 2020. That was a whole new experience for me. On one hand, there was this fear of a pandemic. On the other hand, the excitement of working on a project. The film was shot in 17 days, and everyone coming to the sets had a fixed routine — mask-unmask, sanitize, drink Kashaya, and shoot. Since this whole project was taking place in an apartment, the neighbours were a little skeptical about us shooting during that time. It was all crazy."

"All married couples can relate to Ikkat, but what the take away from the film depends on each individual. Though I am yet to get married, having explored such a role, I would say it is mutual respect between a couple that makes a marriage work," Bhoomi says.

"The lockdown had people facing two problems — pandemic related mental stress. Two, it forced people to spend time with someone for many days together. Even if you like the other person, it is hard to be with someone 24/7. Ikkat explores such human complications well," Nagabhushana signs off.

Vidyut Jammwal to star in and produce IB 71

CE FEATURES

Vidyut Jammwal has announced his debut film as a producer. Titled IB 71, the upcoming film is directed by Sankalp Reddy (The Ghazi Attack) and co-produced by Reliance Entertainment. Besides bankrolling it, Vidyut will also star in the espionage thriller.

IB 71 is set before the Indo-Pak war, with Vidyut essaying an Indian intelligence officer. The film is written by Aditya Shastri.

In a statement posted online, Vidyut said - "I'm happy to announce my first feature titled IB 71 as Producer at Action Hero Films. Directed by Sankalp Reddy, the upcoming film is the banner's first collaboration with the creative giant Reliance Entertainment. I write this with utmost gratitude and sincerity to convey my love to you for your blessings and support. IB 71 is a step towards fulfilling the promise of quality filmmaking. This project is a result of team work and belief. I seek your support for it forever. Thank you for being part of my journey. Wishing you the forward move you've hoped for." Vidyut's last release was The Power on Zee Plex. He will next be seen in Sanak and Khuda Haafiz Chapter II.

Ek Duaa trailer out

CE FEATURES

The trailer for Esha Deol-starrer Ek Duaa is out. Directed by Ram Kamal Mukherjee, the film will release on Voot Select on July 26. It follows a mother, Abida (Esha), trying to carve out an equal space for her daughter in a conservative household.

Ek Duaa is co-produced by Venky's and Assorted Motion Pictures. It's the first film launched under Esha's banner, Bharat Esha Films (BEF).

Talking about the film, Esha had shared, "I wanted to do a film that not just entertains but also informs and inspires change. When I heard the concept of Ek Duaa, it truly touched me, and more so as a mother of two girls. So, I decided to extend my association with it as a producer rather than just being an actor."

Taapsee, Gulshan begin shooting for Blurr

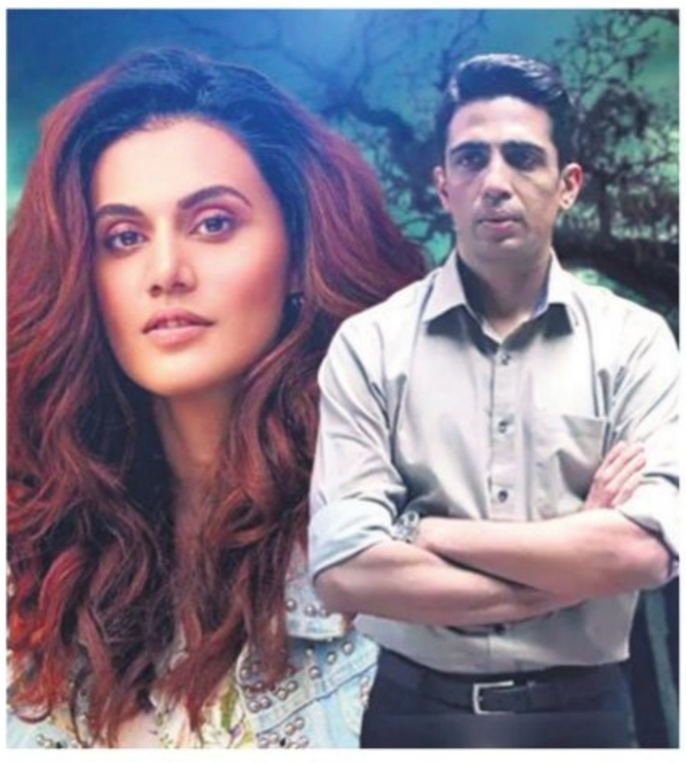
CE FEATURES

Blurr, the first film from Taapsee Pannu's newly launched production house Outsiders Films, has gone on floors.

The team shared pictures from their muhurat shot in Uttarakhand. As they left for the shoot to Nainital, Taapsee introduced her on-screen husband, actor Gulshan Devaiah. "Taking over the producer responsibility of revealing my star on board!" she wrote.

Blurr will be partly shot in the heritage buildings of Nainital with Mall Road and Russian Bypass. Besides this, certain scenes will be canned at places like Bhimtal, Bhawali Sattal and Mukteshwar. Blurr is being helmed by Section 375 director Ajay Bahl. Written by Pawan Sony and Ajay Bahl, the film is a psychological thriller with a social context.

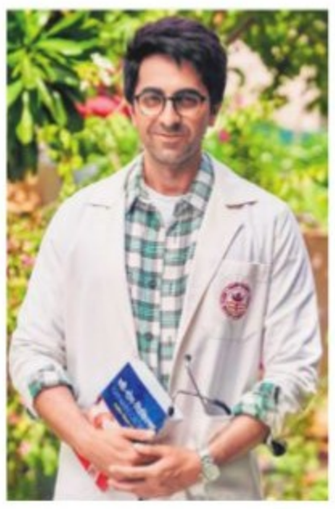


Ayushmann Khurrana shares first look from Doctor G

CE FEATURES

Ayushmann Khurrana has shared his first look from Doctor G. Directed by Anubhuti Kashyap, the film is a campus drama set in the medical world. Ayushmann is seen wearing a doctor's lab coat in the picture. He is holding a gynaecology book in his hands. A stethoscope sticks out of his coat pocket.

Doctor G went on floors in Bhopal last week. The film also stars Rakul Preet Singh and Shefali Shah. It's written by Sumit Saxena, Vishal Wagh and Saurabh Bharat and produced by Junglee Pictures.



Ayushmann's character in the film is named Dr. Uday Gupta. Speaking about the project, Ayushmann said, "The subject of Doctor G is very close to me. Considering the lockdown restrictions, we all have been waiting to start the film and we are glad that the day has finally arrived. It's an honour to portray a doctor on the screen for the first time. I am truly excited to start shooting the film also because it's going to allow me to relive my memories of being a student and living the hostel life. I'm looking forward to collaborating with my director Anubhuti."
